The Hunterdon Democrat was formed September 5, 1838 at Flemington, New Jersey. In 1847, the name was changed to the Hunterdon County Democrat which title still is being used (1975). The initial annual subscription rate for those who received their papers by private post was $2.00.

Microfilm copies of the Hunterdon County Democrat newspaper are available at the State Archives, Trenton, NJ. These may also be purchased through the Archives. Over the past few years I acquired microfilm copies of the paper (1838-1900) for the purpose of extracting family information. However, as I began extracting family data, I saw the value in extracting all genealogical data, regardless of family relationship.

I now make this information available to anyone interested. I do not guarantee that all pertinent information has been extracted from the records, but I have made every effort to extract, marriage, death, and other bits of information I felt might be useful. The majority of the information presented is exactly as printed by the editor, including spelling and typo errors. Hopefully, my typing errors are few. The majority of articles are as printed in their entirety however, some articles have been capsulated due to article length or information contained therein. If anyone would like the full extract of a particular article, please contact me at: njsutton@njsuttonfamily.org. I will make every effort to respond to your mail and provide a complete extract.

Common abbreviation used on these pages: inst: same month
ult: previous month/time

The information contained in these pages is not limited to Hunterdon County. The newspaper published many articles that involved other areas of New Jersey, the United States and even overseas locations. Hope all enjoy the information and find it useful in your research.

Died

In this Village, yesterday morning, 22d inst., after a protracted illness, Mrs. Susan Blackwell, widow of the late John T. Blackwell, Esq. in the 67th year of her age. The deceased has been long known in this community, as an exemplary and valuable member of Society, and esteemed and beloved by an extensive circle of friends and acquaintances. From an early period of life, she has been a member of the Baptist church, adorning her christian profession by a walk and conversation becoming the Gospel. In the endearing relation of wife and mother, she has left an example long to be remembered by those who now are called to mourn her loss. Living and dying in the faith of Christ, her life was tranquil, and her end was peace; and to her the language is justly applicable, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." In her death, her surviving children sustain a loss which no earthly good can compensate, but their loss is her unspeakable gain. Her friends are respectfully invited to attend her funeral, on Thursday next, at 11 o'clock, A.M.

On the 18th inst. in Raritan township, James Higgins, aged about 50 years.

A German named Henry Zimmerly, on Monday week, stabbed his wife in several places. She died of the wounds.

The Last Vicksburg Slaughter

The N. Orleans Republican gives the following particulars of the rencontre at Vicksburg, which resulted in the death of Mr. Jenkins, editor of the Sentinel.

A political meeting the previous day, some altercation had taken place between the parties, when Mr. Jenkins gave the lie to Mr. Crabbe, who immediately, in return, slapped his (Mr. Jenkins') face, without the affair proceeding any further at the time.... Mr. Crabbe seizing and holding his arm with one hand, whilst he endeavored to get out his pistol with the other. Jenkins, however, succeeded in releasing his arm, and again stabbed him, and Mr. Crabbe having succeeded in getting out his pistol, fired, and the ball, it is supposed passed through Jenkin's heart, as he fell and expired immediately. We understand that Mr. Crabbe died very shortly after the affray, though another report says that he was still alive, though not expected to survive. Mr. Jenkins has left, as we are informed, a wife and three children...

Henry Clay's Mother

We copy from Elliot's memoirs of "the women of the Revolution," the following sketch of Mr. Clay's mother - the mother of Harry of the West:

Our country offers abundant examples of men who have attained its highest eminence, ascribing all to early maternal training. For the mother of Henry Clay, the great man - the pride and honor of his country - has ever expressed feelings of profound affection and veneration. Though her life offered no incident of striking or romantic interest, she was what expresses the perfection of female character - an excellent mother. She was the youngest of two daughters, who were the only children of George and Elizabeth Hudson. Her name also was Elizabeth, she was born in the county of Hannover, in Virginia, in 1760. Her education such as attainable at that period in the colony. In her 15th year she was married to John Clay, a preacher of the Baptist denomination and became the mother of eight children. Mr. Clay died during the war of the Revolution.

Some years afterwards, Mrs. Clay contracted a second marriage with Mr. Henry Watkins, and in course of time eight children more were added to her family.

Her son Henry was separated from her when only 13 years of age, having before that period been occasionly absent from home for months in going to school. In 1792, his stepfather removed with his mother and family from Hannover county to Woodford county in Kentucky, leaving him at Richmond in Virginia. He did not again see his mother till the fall of 1797, when he himself emigrated to Kentucky. His estimable and beloved parent died in 1827, having survived most of her children, of whom there are now but four remaining—two by the first and two by the last marriage.

Another Soldier Gone

Maj. Samuel Horn, an old resident of Easton, died on Tuesday morning, the 10th ultimo. He died from a disease contracted in Mexico, from which he never recovered. In the war of 1812, he joined the army and fought bravely under Gen. Scott at Lundy's Lane and in other battles. When the Mexican war broke out, although he was then 62 years of age, he joined the Mauch Chunk company as a drummer and beat his drum at most every battle from Vera Cruz to Mexico. On his return home he was taken sick and reached home but to lie down and die. His remains were interred in the old Lutheran burial ground, with military honors.

Disaster At Albany

The Albany Argus gives the particulars of a disaster in that city on Thursday afternoon, by which three men lost their lives. The occurrence took place at the works of the Albany Gas Works, in Arch street.... The men, Michael Flood and Peter Halpin, who had been in the service of the company and well understood their duties, set about the job. Flood descended first, and when he had got to the bottom of the well, found he had no plug to stop the hole he was to drill into the pipe. Halpin went up for it, and it is supposed while he was absent Flood drilled the hole, and the gas escaping, overcame him immediately. Halpin, returning into the well with the plug, was also immediately overpowered, as is supposed, for no one was in the immediate vicinity of the accident. At last, some of the workmen, alarmed at their protracted absence, lowered Patrick Coyle into the well, having previously tied a rope around his body, to haul him out if he considered himself in danger. Coyle had not been lowered far before he appeared to be overcome by the escaping gas, and before he could be released, he was beyond all hopes of recovery, and lived but a few minutes after he was drawn out.... Flood had been married but a short time, but Halpin and Coyle leave behind them large families to bewail their sudden bereavement.

A Sad Story

A Sister's Love - On Friday night, a brother and sister of the name of M'Grath, he 14 and she 16 years of age, were returning between nine and ten o'clock at night from Dreg-Bridge Market. Their way for two miles, lay across the bleak mountains of Tieran, where there was neither road nor dwelling. There is seems the storm and rain became too much for their endurance. In the morning they were found dead by each other's side. The girl on leaving home had a shawl and small woolen handkerchief; one of these was found wrapped round his head and neck, while his two hands were folded in her bosom; she , it seems, was trying to preserve his life while her own was fast ebbing away.

A Melancholy Story

On the afternoon of Thursday, the 14th ult., Mrs. Mary Barnet, consort of Mr. Robert P. Barnet, of Prairieville, Pike county, Missouri, and daughter of Mr. Archier Brown, Lynchburg, Virginia, set out, in company with her niece and nephew, to visit the daughter of a friend who was ill. After traveling about two miles they discovered a cloud rising, and determined to stop at the house of an acquaintance, nearby, until the cloud should pass over. But at that moment a young man rode up and informed them that the young lady was not expected to live through the ensuing night. This determined Mrs. Barnet to go with him, leaving her niece and nephew to follow on after the storm, which was fast approaching.

Immediately after the rain had ceased, which was about an hour from the time of their stopping, the niece and nephew resumed their journey, and in about a mile they came upon the dead bodies of their aunt and the young man, Mr. George Wells, formerly of Albemarle county, Virginia, together with their horses, lying by the road side, all having been killed by lightning. The screams of the young lady brought to this scene of death several neighbors who were in hearing, when every effort was made to resuscitate them; but in vain. Mrs. Barnet has left to mourn their loss a father, two sisters, an interesting little daughter of 12 years of age, and an affectionate husband now on an expedition to California. The work of death did not stop here. Just after dark of the same evening the sick lady referred to, Miss Maria Louisa, daughter of Mr. Joseph Roberts, formerly of Nelson county, Virginia, who but a week before was in the bloom of youth and health, bid adieu to all that was earthly. Lynchburg Virginian.

Drowned
Margaret Kelly, aged about 30 and well dressed, a native of Ireland, and who arrived in New York from thence on Monday of last week, was found in the rear of the Gun Factory on Monday morning. In the afternoon of the day previous, she was in company with a brother-in-law, from whom she separated about 4 1/2 o'clock, since which no tidings were known of her until her discovery in the race. It appeared at the inquest that she had been in a desponding state of mind for some time previous, which induced the belief that she had either accidentally or intentionally thrown herself into the race, and thus become her own destroyer. - Paterson Guardian.

Love and Suicide
During the rejoicing over completion of the wire suspension bridge, at Wheeling, on the 15th of the present month, a most lamentable occurrence took place. It appears that Miss Mary Hughes had formed an acquaintance with a young man of Wheeling, who won the heart of the young lady. The day previous to the celebration the two lovers walked to the opposite shore upon the wire bridge. The father received his intelligence and on the return of his daughter, gave her a severe reprimanding and it is said, a chastisement. The following day, amid the roaring of cannon, the shouting of the multitude and the discourse of music, this young girl, only about fifteen years of age, walked boldly from her parental roof, without attendance crossed the bridge, and from the island around which runs the Ohio and from the minor bridge, threw herself into the stream. The powerful current soon carried her beyond all hope, and in a few minutes after, her soul was in eternity. - Cincinnati Commercial, Nov. 22d.

Death of Wilson Bray

The sudden and unexpected death of Wilson Bray, Esq., of Kingwood, caused a deep gloom to pervade the community of which he was a highly respected member. The circumstances of his death, as we learn them, are these: Mr. Bray had left his home in Kingwood, in excellent health, for the purpose of visiting his son-in-law, in Virginia, and had preceded as far as Philadelphia. On his way to the city, or soon after he had arrived there, he had his pocket book, containing a considerable sum of money, stolen from his pocket. As soon as he could, he gave information of the fact to the police, and on Thursday afternoon last, as he stood conversing with a police officer in Fifth Street, near Chestnut, relating to him the circumstances under which his pocket was picked the day previous, Mr. Bray was seized with a fit of apoplexy, which felled him to the earth. The officers immediately procured medical aid, and had him removed to the residence of his brother, Mr. Daniel Bray, in Vine Street, where he remained a short time until he could be taken home. He lingered until Friday evening last, when death put an end to his intense agonies. Thus has a valued and highly respectable member of our community, been suddenly stricken down, in the full vigor of health, leaving a widow and several children and a large circle of relatives and friends to lament their lost...

Horrible Tragedy - Murder and Suicide

The New York Sun says: Yesterday morning at 5 o'clock, a horrible tragedy was enacted by a man named John Schmidt, residing at 83 Avenue A, the circumstances of which are as follows:

For some time past Schmidt has entertained jealous feelings towards his wife, on account of her having taken in charge a young infant, named Madie Hochrien, belonging to her sister, who died about 7 weeks since and from supposed attentions which she received from the husband of the deceased. On Sunday night last, Schmidt beat his wife severely and with a pistol endeavored to take her life, but alarmed at her loud screams, he desisted. On Monday night he returned to his room in the 4th story, after being away most of the day, and seizing his wife, beat her over the head with his fist, and drove her out of the room; in consequence of which she was compelled to seek shelter in a neighbor's house.

Yesterday morning about 6 o'clock, the reports of two pistol were heard in his room. The police being called shortly after, the door was force open, and the man was found in the inner room, lying prostrate upon the floor, grasping in his hand a double barreled pistol, with which he had put an end to his miserable existence, by placing the muzzle in his mouth and discharging the contents through his head. He had previous to the commission of this fatal deed, killed the infant by striking it on the side of the head with his fist, after which he destroyed the clothing of his wife by cutting them to pieces with a large bowie knife.

Terrible Tragedy Near Boston - Boston, June 8.
We learn from the adjoining borough of Roxbury, that last evening, about 8 o'clock, a young man, a stranger from Maine, called at the residence of Dr. A. J. Cummings, complaining of being unwell. Dr. C., being absent, Mrs. Cummings invited him into the parlor. Soon after taking a seat, he complained of a pain in his side. At that moment, Mrs. Cummings' little daughter, a girl of about 8 years old, came into the parlor, when the stranger, drawing a razor from his pocket, seized the child and cut its throat from ear to ear. Mrs. Cummings sprang forward to protect her child, and was herself very badly cut in the hands. The monster then attacked the mother, and as she fled from the house, pursued her to a neighbor's residence, where she sought refuge. Failing to overtake her, he returned to Dr. Cummings's residence, and there cut his own throat, falling dead in the street. The little girl died instantly. He was evidently insane. His name is supposed to be Ephraim D. Daggett, of Hope, Maine.

Sudden Death

The Morris Jerseyman says: It is seldom we are compelled to record so sudden a termination of the life of a person in the prime of manhood as at present. Jonathan P. Bartley, Esq., late member of the Assembly from Roxbury, went to Stanhope on Saturday last on business, and was examining the operation of a circular saw, intending to put one up at his works at the lower part of Flanders. Standing in front of the board which was being severed, the saw struck a hard knot, which threw it out of the person’s hands who had it in charge, striking Mr. Bartley in the pit of the stomach. He was taken to a Hotel, and a physician being immediately called, restoratives were administered, and on partially recovering, he expressed a desire to be taken home, which was acceded to. Being in such excruciating pain he could be taken no further than the residence of his father-in-law, Capt. Caskey, where he gradually sunk, and expired about 7 o’clock on Sabbath evening.... He leaves an affectionate wife and six children to mourn their irreparable loss and his death has caused a vacuum, both in the church and in the society in which he lived, not readily filled. His age was about 45.

Fatal Case of Shooting - Providence, Oct. 11

A man named Joseph Pratt, in Pawtucket, having missed some of his chickens for some time past, kept his gun loaded for the purpose of shooting the thieves. About half-past eight o'clock last night, a man named William Roodney had been to the post office, and passed near the hen roost on his return, when Pratt fired and shot Rodney in the back; the whole charge wadding and all, entered his body, and he died at half-past one this morning. He was Pratt's next door neighbour, and there is no probability that he was concerned in stealing the hens. Rodney leaves a family in Fall River.

Awful Tragedy - Tongue-Lashing Wives

Thomas Gewin and James McCollum were both killed, a few days ago in a renounter, near De Kalb, Mississippi.

"They were near neighbors, and a fued had existed between their families for some time."
On the day of the fatal occurrence, their wives met and were exchanging abusive words, when McCollum, happening to come up, made an assault on the wife of Gewin. As soon as Gewin learned the particulars, he armed himself with a gun, and started with the avowed purpose of killing McCollum. They met on the road, a short distance from McCollum's house; when both fired, and both were killed - each having received a full charge of buckshot, on in the breast and the other in his side and back.

Shocking Murder

The Marlborough Gazette gives an account of a most fiendish murder committed in Charles County, Md., upon Mr. James Johnson, by tying him to a fence, placing fuel under him, and setting it on fire. This extraordinary barbarity was committed by two men, named Smith and Osborne, who have been arrested, their unhappy victim having barely survived long enough to denounce them as his murderers.

Mrs. Cooper, a young married woman, has eloped from Pompret, Windham county, Ct., with a "colored gentleman," taking with her an only child. She is a decided "free soiler."

The Doylestown Suicide

The young man who committed suicide in Doylestown week before last, has been recognized as a son of Samuel Sechler, of Richmond township, Bucks Co., Pa. The corpse was conveyed to the residence of the parents for interment. The horse and wagon proved to be the property of Mr. Sitgreaves of Allentown, Pa., and had been hired by the young Sechler. No evidence appears of his having been robbed as stated by him. He had probably attempted to steal the horse and wagon but being suspected and detained, committed the fatal deed to avoid conviction of the crime. He had previously been engaged in similar business but so far had avoided detection.

Shameful Desertion

Three children, between the ages of 3 and 9 years, were yesterday brought to the lower Police Court by a person who stated that they had been deserted by their father, a Mr. Livingston, and left at his house. It appears that, about three weeks ago, the father called at the house No. 33 Wooster street, and engaged board for himself and three children. He remained in the house for two or three days, when he left, and has not since returned.... - N.Y. Sun.

Henry Gibson, one of Washington's Life Guards, died on Monday in Orange County, New York, at the advanced age of one hundred and one years and twenty four days. It will be remembered that this veteran was present at the dinner given in New York by the Continental companies on the 23d of February last, and that he was elected an honorary member of each of them. His remains will be brought to New York, where they will be laid in state for several days and be finally buried in Greenwood Cemetery with military honors.

Hickory Run, March 31, 1852

A most distressing accident occurred at Day & Saylor's steam mill, by which Mr. Henry Stull, head sawyer, lost his life. He understook to put a strap on the drum which drives the circular saw, and was caught by the skirts of his coat by the battered end of a small iron key which holds another pulley to the same shaft, and was whirled round at the rate of 250 time per minutes - his legs coming in contact with a scaffold on which he had stood, were broken in several places and his face badly bruised. The steam was shut off instantly, but by the time the mill stopped life was nearly extinct.

Horrible Occurrence - Child Murdered by an Insane Mother

The Coroner was called, this morning, to Rocky Hill, Oxford Township, Philadelphia county, to hold an inquest upon the body of Mary Ann Hilt, an infant child, four week old. It appeared that, on yesterday morning, Mrs. Hilt, the mother of the child, who has been crazy since Christmas last, in a violent fit of mania, seized the babe by the legs and broke its skull to atoms against a chair...

A little boy, six years of age, son of the unhappy woman, gave the alarm to two neighboring women. They rushed in, and discovered Mrs. Hilt in the act of cutting her throat... - Evening Bulletin.

May 12, 1852, Vol. XIV, No. 39, Whole No. 713

A rather extraordinary marriage occurred at Floyd's Fork, Jefferson County, Ky, on the 15th inst., when, by Rev. Mr. Cunningham, Mr. Thomas Stafford was married to Polly Goben. The bride is 19 and the bridegroom 77 years of age. He weighs some 300 pounds and is so fat as scarcely to be able to walk, and when in bed raises himself, or turns over, by means of pullies fastened to the ceiling.

Two deaf mutes, John c. Acker, a printer in the office of the Rochester Democrat, and Miss Amanda Ashley were married in the sign-language at Rochester on Sunday last. Both parties are graduates of the New York institution for the Deaf and Dumb.

Another Murder in New York
On Tuesday morning about 1 o'clock, a cold-blooded murder was committed in the Fourth Ward, the particulars of which are as follows:
It appears that two men named Patrick McCormick and John Harvey were in Mr. Steele's liquor shop, corner of Henry and Catherine streets, when, concerning some trivial matter, they commenced fighting. This dispute was apparently settled, and the two men walked arm and arm down Catherine street, to No. 44, where McCormick resided. Here the fight was again resumed and in a scuffle which ensued, McCormick stabbed Harvey in the side with a large jack knife, which caused his death almost instantly.

The Terrible Accident on the Railroad Near Watertown, New York
It appears that a company of nine persons - two married men with their wives and five young ladies - thought to amuse themselves by an evening’s ride from the manor to Sandy Creek, on a hand car, after, as they supposed, the last regular train for the day had passed. After running about half a mile, and as they were turning a curve in the road, they were met by a locomotive and tender, which was backing up from the creek to the manor.
The unfortunate occupants of the hand car had but a moment's warning, and that moment served only to paralyze the ladies with fear. One of the men seized his wife, and the other one his wife and one of the young ladies, and sprang from the car. The other four were on the car when the collision took place; three of them were thrown under the locomotive and crushed to death, and the other was found mortally wounded by a blow which she received in the forehead.

The names of the young ladies killed, were: Miss Wright, of Oswego, and Miss Williamson, Miss Allen, and Miss Andrus, of Pierrepont Manor.

Frightful Suicide

Miss Laura Lull, a respectable American girl, of West Brookfield, Mass., committed suicide a day or two since under the following painful circumstances: Having been the victim of a cruel and heartless desertion and laboring under a sensitiveness of disappointment and wrong inflicted upon her, she visited Worcester on the morning of the fatal day, but only to find her last hope crushed. Returning to the East Brookfield station, she left the cars and inquiring at what time the next train would pass up towards Springfield, (which would be in a short time), she started on foot towards West Brookfield, and disappeared beyond an adjacent curve. Very soon the train came up, and when the whistle was sounded, she snatched her purse and taking a ring from her finger, gave them to a little girl who was walking by her side, telling her to hasten up a bank out of the way of the cars. This done, she immediately laid down upon the tracks, and almost in an instant was a mangled and shapeless form!

Killed

On Monday morning, as the train which leaves Philadelphia at 8 o'clock was approaching Spottswood, under full speed, a man of intemperate habits, named Samuel Culver, threw himself in a prostrate condition across the track, in front of the cars, and, before the locomotive could be reversed, the tram passed over him, killing him instantly, and mangling his body in a terrible manner. He was conveyed to his family in Spottswood. - Newark Eagle.

The Last of the "Old Guard"

Mr. Silas Perry died at Keene, N.H., June 3, aged 89 years. He entered the revolutionary army in 1779, when but 16 years old, and was one of a detachment of soldiers who guarded the house in which Major Andre was confined, and who escorted him to the gallows on the 2nd of October 1789.

A Green Old Age

A Startling Murder and Suicide In Newark, N.J.
A dreadful tragedy was discovered about nine o'clock on Wednesday morning, in Newark, the Advertiser says, where a German, named Bernard Runy, aged 45, and his wife Caroline aged 26, have occupied two rooms on the third floor since the first of June. They have been missed since Saturday night by the other occupants of the house, and some suspicions having been excited this morning by the stench issuing from the room, a ladder was raised to the back window, and a pane of glass broken - the doors being locked - when the bodies of Runy and wife were discovered lying upon the bed, large quantities of dried blood being upon the bed and floor. Both were bloated, disfigured and corrupted to a great extent... The case is evidently one of jealousy and revenge, most probably suicide on the part of Runy after the murder of his wife.

Obituary

The remains of the late bishop of this diocese were interred yesterday in the ground attached to Grace church. Bishop Doane, of New Jersey, officiated, assisted by the Rev.
Mr. Southgate, late Missionary Bishop to Constantinople. The Rev. John Williams Assistant Bishop of Connecticut, preached the funeral sermon.

Melancholy Result of a Foolish Banter

On Saturday evening two young men, in Stewart street, Moyamensing, made a banter with each other as to who could drink the most liquor. One of them drank a pint, when he became sick and threw it up it, however, gave him an attack of mania a potu, from which he was suffering yesterday and he is still unwell today. The other rash young man, whose name is William Gallagher, elated with his triumph in the contest of folly, continued to swallow the poisonous stuff until he had taken nearly a quart. He was seized with alarming symptoms, and this morning expired... Young Gallagher was about 23 years old. - Eve. Bul.

Terrible Catastrophy.
Burning of the Steamboat Henry Clay.
Great Loss of Life.

The Henry Clay started from Albany in company with the Armenia, making the usual stoppages for passengers, swelling the number till it reached to between three and four hundred. She raced with the A., as all the passengers we have seen inform us, till she had run ahead of that steamer some four or five miles. Her hull had become very much heated from the sun, as well as from her own furnaces, till she was as dry as a chip and inflammable as gunpowder. In this condition, and when near Yonkers, while these three or four hundred human beings were little dreaming of danger, a black smoke was seen to issue from the centre of the boat, near the pipes... Immediately it was noticed that the head of the boat was turned towards the shore, from which the breeze was blowing. Then the flames began to steal up and through the vessel. Then the cry of fire spread consternation among the passengers on-board the ill fated steamer. Almost immediately after this she struck on shore, below Yonkers, about a quarter of a mile this side of Fonthill, Mr. Forrest's residence, and the scene that then ensued baffles description....

The inquest will be continued this morning. Some sixty persons are still missing, and the boats are engaged in grappling for the bodies. The following are the names of those upon whom the inquest was held:

- Mrs. Elizabeth Hillman, of Troy, N.Y.
- Mrs. Emilie Bancroft, aged 55, wife of Stacy B. Bancroft, dry goods merchant, of Philadelphia.
- Mrs. Anthony Robinson and daughter, of Perry street, N.Y.
- Mrs. Owen Fernnel, of Wilmington, North Carolina.
- A. G. Downing, editor of the Horticulturist, Newburg, missing.
- Mrs. G. W. Simins, of Eldridge street, New York, lost two children; the body of one of them, a boy about two and a half years old, has been found and identified.
- Mr. G. F. Whitlock, house agent, No. 96, Allen street, New York, drowned; on his body was found a port monaie, gold watch, pencil case, &c.
- Owen Fernnell, of Wilmington, North Carolina, drowned.
- Mrs. Wint and daughter, of Perry street, N.Y., missing.
- Mrs. Baily, drowned.
Mr. W. F. Ray, wife and daughter, of Cincinnati, Ohio, drowned. Mr. S. W. D. Cook saved one of Mr. Ray's children, by swimming from the stern of the wreck to the shore.

Singular and Sudden Death

We learn, says the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, that on Saturday, a gentleman named Sheldon, residing at Cooper's Hill, N.J., stepped into a store at that place to wait a few minutes for an omnibus, when the attendant, stepping out, left him alone for a short time; and after returning, found him sitting in his chair, lifeless, his cane still in his hand, and his cigar in his mouth. During the afternoon, several of the neighbors called to see the corpse, through curiosity, and among others, Mrs. Shivers, wife of Charles W. Shivers, residing at Cooper's Hill, and such was the shock to her feelings, from looking upon the corpse, that she was thrown into spasms, and died a few hours afterwards. She was a lady of about 25 years, and leaves two interesting children.

New Murder Case

A young woman, named Emeline Higgs, was recently arrested in Hatboro, Montgomery county, for the murder of her illegitimate child, and she is to be tried for the offence next week at Norristown. Circumstances led to the suspicion that the death of Adam Miller, he adopted father, which took place several months ago, was caused by her. On Saturday last his body was disinterred, and stomach sent to this city for examination, which, we learn has resulted in the discovery of arsenic. - Phila. Bulletin.

Suicide

On Monday morning, 16th inst., about seven o'clock, a young man named John S. Davis, who had been boarding at the hotel of Mr. English, at the West Jersey Ferry Company’s Wharf, was found dead in his room, having committed suicide. From indications he had been dead since Saturday night, as on that evening he sent out and purchased two ounces of laudanum from one of the drug stores, and the bottle which had contained it was found by his side almost empty. His father resides in Camden, and the deceased had been a clerk in the office of the New York Railroad Transportation line at Walnut street wharf, under Mr. Freeman, and was highly esteemed. He has a wife in Baltimore, but no children.

Horrible Affair

On Sunday morning, the 9th inst., the body of a man named Francis Kirksey, was found on the track of the Macon and Western Railroad, in Atlanta, Ga., having been run over by the cars of the morning training fro Newman. When the body was discovered, a number of circumstances were observed, leading to a strong suspicion that the person had been murdered, and his body placed on the track during the night. The body exhibited marks of recent violence, which could not have been ejected by the cars. Subsequent developments during the day led to the arrest of several persons.

It was supposed that she went into the cellar on some errand, and while there fell in a fit, at the same time setting her clothes on fire with the lighted candle in her hand. Her age was between 50 and 60.

Mrs. Smith, and old lady ninety-four years of age, mother of Reuben Smith of Westfield was burnt to death in that town, on Wednesday. She was left alone, at noon in her room. Not long afterwards one of the family entered and found her dead upon the floor by the side of her bed, her clothes nearly all burnt from her person and her bed on fire.

A son of Jacob Drake, of Troy, assaulted his sister-in-law on Friday with a shovel, and left her as he supposed, dead. He then cut his own throat, but not doing it effectually, he opened an artery in his arm and bled to death. The woman is doing well.

Suicide in Upper Rahway

The Rahway Republican says a melancholy occurrence took place in Upper Rahway on Thursday morning last, about half past seven o'clock. Mr. Almond Curtis, a respectable and worthy citizen of this town, while laboring under temporary insanity, cut his throat with a razor in a shocking manner.... He lingered until Saturday evening last, when life departed. He was 38 years of age, he has left a wife and four children to mourn his loss.

A fatal accident occurred on the New Jersey Railroad in Newark, on Monday night. Mr. G. Lansing Van Husen, was returning from New York, in the 11 1/2 train, and within a few rods of the station attempted to leave the car while they were under considerable speed, to save a short distance on his way home. Having some toys for his children in his hands, and losing his foothold, he fell under the cars. Ten wheels passed over his legs, crushing one from the thigh downward and mangling the other. His chest was also injured and one clavicle was broken. He had no pulse after the injury, and expired in a few hours. He was 34 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children to deplore his untimely death. He was a native of Albany and was generally known by the name of Garret Lansing.

A Murder Committed by Boys

A strange and horrible case of murder occurred in the Nursery, on Randell's Island a few days ago. The victim was a child about six years of age named John McCaffrey, and the boy by whom he was murdered were not more than one year older. It appears from the testimony of some of the nurses, that the deceased was found lying dead in his bed, with several bruises on his head and legs, where he had been beaten with sticks.

This was all they could tell of the murder, but John Mann, a boy about ten years of age, stated that he saw two boys named James Crumley and Charles Collins standing by the bedside of McCaffrey, the former of whom was beating him on the face and legs with a piece of wood....

Sudden Death in Warren County

A young man named Wm. C. Tompson, who was engaged in teaching school in the town of Washington in Warren County, was found dead in his apartment about noon on the 25th ult. He was 25 years of age, and had been unwell for some time, but was not confined to his bed but a few hours. Half an hour before his demise, he drank some coffee and eat a piece of toast. An inquest was held, and the jury rendered the following verdict: "That William C. Thompson died from the affect of an organic disease of the heart."

Horrible Sight

This morning, about eleven o'clock, the officers of the Southwark Division of the Marshal's police were informed that a child had been killed by its mother in Plum street, near Third. - Several of the members of the department hastened to the place, and there found an infant child, aged only six months, lying dead in its cradle, in the back garret room of house No. 67, the lower floor was occupied by John Moor, as a "porter and ale house." The room in which the little innocent was found, presented a picture of destitution, wretchedness and the effect of dissipation. Near the cradle, containing the lifeless body of the child, lay its father, John Montgomery, and its mother, Rachel Montgomery, both in a beastly state of intoxication. A filthy bed was discovered in one corner of the room, while upon a chest lay an unbroken loaf of bread. The parents appear to have lived upon rum. The degraded couple were Scotch, and had lived in this miserable abode for the last six months, during which time the dead infant had been born. Another child, about four years old, was found upon the premises... Philadelphia Bulletin of the 27th ult.

Singular Case of Suicide

Jacob Cole, of this village, committed suicide on Tuesday afternoon week, by blowing out his brains with a gun.... The cause which induced him to the sacrifice of his own life were as follows: On Saturday last a young girl who had been living in his family for some time past, appeared before Justice Terwilliger, of his village, and preferred a charge of rape against him, upon which he was arrested and held to bail for his appearance at court in the sum of $1,000. - The Circuit Court in and for Ulster county being in session this week in Kingston, he was in expectation of being called by his counsel, at every moment, to appear immediately before the Grand Jury, to answer to the charge preferred against him. It seems his counsel was about making a settlement of the affair with the father of the girl, and wishing to consult Cole in regard to the matter, telegraphed for him to come down immediately, not stating any particulars. Cole mistook the summons to be for his appearance before the court, and rather than appear before the legal tribunal, he put an end to his existence. His age was 71 years. - Saugertiez Telegraph.

Another Murder - The Murderer Arrested - Philadelphia, June 12.
I am again called upon to record another murder in Philadelphia. It took place about 5 o'clock last evening, at a lumber yard at Sixth Coates streets. The facts are thus briefly summed up:
Owen Shevlin, an Irishman, had been employed to cart a load of lumber and in endeavoring to deposit it in the yard above named, a difficulty occurred between him and Robert Coates, a laborer in the yard, about the spot where the lumber should be placed. The quarrel continued for about five minutes; and while Coates was in the act of stooping down, Shevlin seized a piece of timber and inflicted a heavy blow upon his head. The deceased leaves a wife and five children to mourn his sudden demise.

Love and Suicide
The Springfield Republican relates a melancholy suicide committed in Harwick, Mass., on the 23d ult., by Mrs. Olinda Doane. She was a woman of unimpeachable character, and had been married but a few weeks. For a year or so previous to her marriage, she had received visits from a respectable young man by a name of Hall, to whom she engaged to married. Her parents opposed her choice, and favored the suit of a widower of considerable property, named Doane....

Found Drowned - Information Solicited
A stranger calling himself James Martin recently applied at a Lock in this vicinity for employment. He worked for about ten days and being missed, was afterwards found drowned in the canal. He was respectable dressed, and aged about 35 years. From his own statement, it appears he was recently from Philadelphia, where he had been engaged in some kind of business, and supposed he had a mother living in Boston. Little is known of the deceased and this notice is given in hopes that it may reach his friends. He was buried in a grave yard at Weston, after an inquest which found a verdict of accidentally drowned.... ~ Somerset Whig.

August 10, 1853, Vol. XV, No. 55, Whole No. 715

A quarrel happened at Washington, Warren County, last week, which terminated in the death of one of the twain. It appears that a man named Fanning, had for reasons unknown to us, separated from his wife, and had lived thus for some length of time without aiding to support his family. A man named George Nixon and Fanning were in Bruner's barroom, at Washington, when Nixon twitted the latter of the fact of his wife's desertion. Fanning became enraged and slapped his accuser in the face. Nixon dared not to retaliate, for Fanning was a powerful man and could easily have mastered him. Nixon left the hotel, went over to Johnson's store, which is nearly opposite, obtained an axe-handle, and when Fanning came out to go to his boarding house, followed him, and struck him upon the head, bringing him to the earth. Nixon then jumped upon his stomach, which he done for some time, and then left him... The wounded man got home as best he could, where he was taken with violent vomiting and suffered great pain, until 9 o'clock at night, when his spirit took flight.... Warren Journal of the 4th inst.

A Sad Calamity

A sad accident occurred last evening in West Cambridge, resulting in the death of a young lady who was much beloved. While a party of young ladies and gentlemen were amusing themselves upon the ice on Spy Pond, West Cambridge, it suddenly gave way, and two daughters of Abel G. Peck, one daughter of Wm. J. Niles, and two young men, sons of D. W. Horton and W. J. Lane, were precipitated into the water. By the timely assistance of Mr. Chas. Griffiths, four of the party were rescued; but Miss Persia Peck, after holding on the ice until her strength failed, called to her friends that she could hold on no longer, bid them adieu, and then sink beneath the cold element. Miss Peck was about 16 years of age...

Man Killed

On Saturday afternoon, December 31st, a quarrel took place between two labors on the Flemington Rail Road, in the vicinity of Ringoes, in this county, named John Murphy and Michael Lynch. It appears that Lynch struck at Murphy with his hand, and immediately the latter struck the former with a pick - the sharp end entering L's head about the brain, and remaining thus until he fell to the ground. The offender fled instantaneously, and we understand that strong efforts have been made by the authorities and others, to have the fiend arrested, but as yet without success.

Shocking Affair

John s. Millhone, in Ritchie Co., Va., was killed by his father-in-law, Richard Ankrum. Millhone's wife had left house with her family in consequence of finding some letters, addressed to her husband, from a woman residing in one of the Eastern cities, whom it appears, in his visits to the city to buy goods, he had courted and promised to marry. On the evening of his death, he went the house of Mr. Ankrum, and while there quarreled with his wife and struck her to the floor with his fist. Mr. Ankrum interfered and several blows were interchanged, which ended in Mr. Ankrum stabbing Millhone to the heart.

Punishment of a Bigamist

A genteel looking man named Jacob Johnson, about thirty years of age, married a lady in Portland, Maine, on the 19th day of December 1849, with whom he lived up to September 1852, when he disappeared. He went to Portsmouth, Va., where he attempted to marry another lady, but the fact of his having a wife was discovered and he left that place. On the 8th of September last he was joined in wedlock to a lady in Baltimore. The fact of his former marriage was discovered on the third day after marriage and the father of the second wife commenced an investigation.... - Boston Courier.

Thomas Parr, of Thropshire, England, when a hundred and twenty years old, married a widow for his second wife, who lived with him twelve years and who stated that, during that time, he never betrayed any signs of age or infirmity. The King of England having heard of him, invited him to London in his hundred and fifty-second year. He was treated in so royal a manner at court, and his mode of living was so totally changed, that he died soon after, in 1635, aged 152 years and 9 months, proven by public documents....

Death from Fright

Ellen Deere, a factory girl of Lowell, was frightened to death in that city on Wednesday night last. She left her boarding house in perfect health, at eight o'clock, with another young woman, to make some purchases, and on returning home, she passed through a dark passage way - supposed that she was followed by some one, ran with her companion to her boarding house, and fell nearly dead upon the sidewalk in front of the door. She breathed but a few moments after being carried into the house, and died of fright - from the effect of imagination, or from the wanton foolishness of some inconsiderate person.

Death of Thomas Ritchie
Several of our exchanges come to us clad in mourning in consequence of the death of the venerable Thomas Ritchie. We share in the regrets expressed by them....

Mr. Ritchie died in the 76th year;... Several of our eminent men have died on the 4th of July, as if Providence designed to show to imperfect man, that no day, however bright, shall pass off without a cloud or however proud, shall end without humility. But a few hours more, and Mr. Ritchie would have died as did Jefferson, Adams, and Monroe, on the anniversary of American Independence.

Horrible Affair in Tennessee
A letter from Danbridge, Tennessee, to the Knoxville Register, dated June 21st, says:
On last Wednesday night, whilst Elijah Moore, his wife and sister-in-law, Miss Lotspeech, were at home, a servant stole quietly into the room in which they were sleeping, and murdered Moore with an axe.

The murderer then violated the person of Miss Lotspeech, the sister of Mrs. Moore. The murderer was apprehended and tied to a tree, in sight of his murdered master's house, a large pile of rich pine was built around him and then set on fire and burned to ashes, in the presence of 1200 or 1500 persons.

Horrible Murderer of Three Persons

A most shocking murder was committed about twelve miles above Dandridge, Tenn., on French Broad River, on Wednesday night, the 14th inst. Mr. Elijah Moore, his wife, and sister-in-law, were found this morning murdered in their beds. They all occupied the same room. Mr. Moore and his wife were lying apparently as they had gone to sleep. Several deep gashes were cut upon their heads, the blows having been inflicted by an axe, which was found in the room with blood upon it. Mr. Moore's sister-in-law, a young lady of twenty years old, seemed to have struggled violently. Suspicion rests upon a negro man belonging to Mr. Moore, who is missing, having taken with him the most of his clothes... - Rondout New York Courier. (See above "Horrible Affair in Tennessee").

A Curious Confession

A seaman on board a Prussian schooner Kenneth Kingsford, at Port Au Prince, had made oath before the American commercial agent at that place that he was the person who murdered John Meyer, last February, in the woods, near Burlington, N.J. He had fled from the United States, but hearing that an innocent man was likely to suffer for his crime, he desired to be sent to the United States for trial. The Prussian Consul refused to deliver up the man, and he has since disappeared. His name he said was John Muller, and at the time of the murder, he was in the employ of Alderman Soa, of Washington Township, Burlington County, New Jersey.

Elopement Extraordinary

On Friday last, Mr. Samuel S. Rembert, one of the wealthiest and most respected planters in this country, living on Big Creek, about twelve miles from this city, went to the house of Dr. A. B. C. Duboise, one of his most intimate friends, and a relation, we understand, and under a pretense of taking a young daughter of Dr. Duboise's to a store to make her a present, took her in his buggy, and the two rode off...

Mr. Rembert is a married man, and leaves a wife and seven children, the youngest about six weeks old, his wife being a daughter of Major Duncan, of Raleigh, a highly respectable family. The young lady is only in the thirteenth year ...

The Murder of Children By Their Mother
Confession of the Unnatural Parent

We yesterday stated that two children had been murdered under circumstances of peculiar atrocity and that the mother had been arrested upon the charge of being instrumental in their destruction, but we were unable at that time to furnish the particulars of the horrible affair. We have since been enabled to procure a full statement, and the facts elicited prove that the reality is even worse than was rumored.

It seems that the mother of the slaughtered children, whose name is Pamela Snyder, has lived for a number of years in the neighborhood of Rising Sun Village, in the Twenty-Third Ward. She was in the habit of performing domestic labors for families in the vicinity and for a number of years has been known by the neighbors to lead a very dissolute life. She was known to have given birth to several children, but they generally disappeared mysteriously, and rumors were rife that they had been foully dealt with.

... The woman was accordingly arrested on Sunday last and she voluntarily confessed to the officers that she had, at different times, within the past six years, given birth to six children, which had either died about the time of their birth, or had been murdered by their mother!...

Fatal Accident

Mr. Arbour Hoff, of Rahway, N.J., was fatally injured on Saturday, the 9th inst., by being caught in some machinery of a Grist Mill of which he was proprietor. He was engaged in building a fire in the wheel-house, and in coming out stepped over a shaft, which catching the skirt of his coat, drew him around it, entangling his left leg in the cogs of the wheel, and crushing it to pieces all the way up the thigh, his entrails gushing from the wound thus created. He lingered in great agony about six hours, when he expired, retaining his senses, however, to the last. Mr. H. was about 55 years of age. He leaves a large family to mourn their irreparable loss.

Petrified Human Bodies

A few days since the body of Mrs. Loy, wife of George P. Loy, who died twenty-four years ago and was buried some three miles from Dayton, Ohio, was disinterred, to be removed to a cemetery. Both the coffin and the body were found to be in an excellent state of preservation... The grave of the grandchild of Mr. Loy was next entered and the coffin exhumed. It was also found to be heavy and when opened, the corpse presented much the same appearance as that of Mrs. Loy.

The Hon. Isaac G. Farlee, whose death we briefly announced in our last issue, was a native of this county. He was born in 1787, thus coming into being almost contemporaneously with the adoption of the Federal Constitution....

A School Teacher Murdered by a Boy - Nashville Whig

We learn from a gentleman who was and eye witness to the following particulars of a most horrible and tragical affair that occurred at Pontotoc, Miss., on Monday last. It appears that Mr. Brown, the principal of the male academy at Pontotoc, had punished one of his pupils about a week since. A brother of the boy that was whipped, by the name of Wray, made threats against Mr. Brown for the aforesaid punishment, to which but little attention was paid. On Monday, young Wray, a youth of some seventeen or eighteen years old, took a position where he knew Wray [Brown?] would pass on his way home, and waited until he came along, when Wray attacked him.

The two clinched, Brown acting only in self defence, and those that seen it thought it only to be a scuffle between them, until they saw Brown run a few yards, his hands upon his abdomen, and fall down lifeless. While they were clinched, Wray had inflicted two wounds upon Brown with a bowie knief, which killed him almost instantly.

Sad Accident at Metuchin

Last Friday while an acquaintance of Mr. C. V. Mundy was arranging the lock of a fowling piece, not knowing it to be loaded, it was accidently discharged and shot a servant girl named Ann Kennedy, who stood immediately in front. The contents of the gun entered the left knee joint, passing through the had, severing the large blood vessels and shattering the lower end of the thigh bone into fragments. The sufferer had lived with Mr. Mundy's family for a long period and had endeared herself to them by her upright and faithful conduct. Everything was done that could in any way conduce to her recovery. The services of Doctor Hunt, Morrogh, Decker and Taylor were procured: the limb was amputated and strong stimulants administered; but not withstanding thier best efforts in her behalf, she was so exhausted from previous loss of blood that she continued to sink and expired on the day following the accident. - New Brunswicker.

Untimely Death

We learn that James Myers, the clown, and one of the proprietors of Myers & Madigan's Circus Co., recently exhibited at Lambertville, in this county, met with an untimely death while proforming on the Slack-rope, at Geneva, New York. The ring by which the rope was fastened gave way, throwning him to the ground with such force as to dash his brains out.

A man named Thomas Daily, jumped from the steamer Isaac Newton, on her passage from Albany to New York, on Saturday nigh last, and was drowned. As the boat left Albany, he was observed with a bottle of liquor, which he drank copiously and became literally crazy. In this state of mind he took the fatal leap.

Sentence of Mrs. Robinson

The notorious Henrietta Robinson, convicted some months since of murder, was sentenced last week, at Troy, N.Y., by Judge Harris, to be hung on Friday, the 3d of August next.

A funeral took place at Spotswood, on Sunday a week, attended with some peculiarity. A man named Olcott, who had kept a mill near that place was buried on that day; and the service was attended by two women, both claiming to be the lawful wife of the deceased, and each with a family of children.

Died
In Clinton township, on 14th of March, Mr. Henry Aller, Esq., in the 93 year of his age. He lived to a good old age and was a useful man in his day. He enjoyed good health till within the last five years. He early in life connected himself with the Dutch Reformed Church near Lebanonville. The deceased leaves his children and a large number of acquaintances to more his loss.

Died

Suddenly, in this place, on Saturday evening, June 3d, Mrs. Elizabeth Trewin, daughter of Capt. S. Vivan, and wife of Thomas Trewin, one of our citizens.

The deceased had been indisposed for several months, though, it was thought, not serious. On the evening of her death she complained of a violent pain in the head, which, we are informed by her physician, was caused by a rush of blood. She was taken about six o’clock in the evening and died about ten. She leaves a bereft husband and an interesting family of little children.

On the 4th inst., by the Rev. Thomas Swaim, Mr. John Gray, to Miss Tamar Jane Farley, both of this township.

Died

On Sunday the 1st inst., Mrs. Martha Hill, wife of Joakim Hill of this village. Mrs. Hill was born September 19th, 1791, at Kingwood, and joined the M.E. Church about the year 1830. The disease which terminated her mortal life was protracted and painful, but as her end approached, she took a firmer hold on the divine promises and at last surrendering her family into the hands of a gracious providence, she gave up her spirit, and we trust through grace, entered the rest of the people of God, in the 65th year of her age.

On the morning of the 5th inst., Capt. George Holcombe, in the 75 year of his age.... His funeral was attended yesterday by a large concourse of friends and neighbors, who after listening to an eloquent discourse (by the Rev. Mr. Osmond, followed by D. D. Studdiford), followed his mortal remains to its final resting place in the burying ground at Mount Airy. West Amwell, July 7, 1855.

A Mother and Son Drowned

A Mrs. Taylor, residing near Brooklyn Lake, in this county, and a son nine years old, were drowned last Friday morning under the following circumstances. The lad was making an effort to reach a hat that had fallen into the water, when he lost his equilibrium and was precipitated into the lake. A younger brother being present, gave the alarm to the parents, which caused Mrs. Taylor to hasten to the place in a state of inconceivable fright. She immediately waded into the lake to reach her drowning child, but unfortunately went too far and was also drowning, when Mr. Taylor arrived at the place, which was but a few moments after she left the dwelling. He immediately plunged into the lake and swam to Mrs. Taylor, but being seized with a fit of cramp, came near perishing with the others but succeeded in reaching the shore again, leaving his wife and son to the sad fate of drowning within a few feet of the shore. - Sussex Herald.

Horrible Death

David Wright, convicted of the murder of A. M. Robinson, at Columbus, Ga., committed suicide under horrible circumstances. He commenced sawing off the chain from his leg and set fire to his cell, in order to knock the jailor down and escape, when the alarm was raised. The fire, however, became too hot before he got the chain off and he was discovered roasted to death, having crawled off as far as the chain would allow him.

Suicide - A Foolish Old Man. The Morristown Jerseyman learns that Mr. Isaac Van Duyne, a respectable farmer, in good circumstance, living near Mountville, Morris Co., committed suicide by hanging on Wednesday. He was very much opposed to his daughter's receiving the attentions of a young man who was waiting upon her, and threatened self-destruction on two or three occasions unless she dismissed him. It was, however, regarded as a freak, and no attention was paid to it by the family. He was about fifty years old, and a brother to a married woman who committed suicide at Pine Brook some months since.

Mr. Cornelius H. Vandeveer, a well known and highly respected citizens of this neighborhood was run over and killed, on the Central Railroad, about 3 miles below this village, on Tuesday afternoon, by the train which leaves this place at 12.24 P.M. What we can learn of the occurrence is as follows: - Mr. Van Derveer was walking on the track in the direction of Boundbrook, and when first seen was on the track, but as the train approached he stepped across to the South track on which the train was running - and was instantly killed. As he was quite deaf, it is possible he was not aware of the approaching danger. He was about fifty years old. (Somerset Whig).

Jan 5, 1859, Vol XXI, No. 21 (1113)
A Double Yelked Turkey. - We have been informed from a reliable quarter, that Wm. S. Sutton, near Baptiststown, Kingwood Township, in this County, sold recently in New York City, a Turkey for $100, its weight being about 40 lbs. Mrs. S. also raised some ten or a dozen of the same breed, weighing from twenty to thirty lbs each. They are of the South Caroline double yelked breed. It is said that there never has been such a large Turkey in New York City, nor one that commanded such a large price. If our New England people could get such large Turkeys for Thanksgiving dinner, one would be sufficient for a whole neighborhood.

Also, January 23d, Arthur W. Bartolette, aged 7 years and three months. These afflicted children had been suffering from a protracted attack of Pertussis, which occasioned them much suffering, when an inflammatory condition of the lungs supervened, resulting in acute Pneumonia. Scarcely had the symptoms of Pneumonia become fully developed when both the little suffers broke out with the Measels, which proved extremely obstinate, and these two were complicated with that malday so justly dreaded by parents, the Scarlet Fever. From the attack of Pnemonia it was but seventy-two hours before all the diseases were fully developed, the inflammatory condition of the lungs taking the predominance over the other, and was much heightened and aggravated by them.... On the succeeding Monday, Jan. 24th, the funeral services were performed at the Baptist Church at Somerville, by the Pastor, Rev. J. N. Folwell. Thence the little corpses were removed (lying side by side in one coffin like two sleeping cherube) to the village cemetery at Somerville, and committed to their final resting place...

Death by Poisoning

The wife of the Rev. J. S. Harden, near Andersontown, Warren county, was suddenly taken ill on the 7th inst., and died in a few hours. A post mortem examination revealed the fact that she had been poisoned by arsenic, and suspicions were fastened upon her husband as the poisoner.... On Monday, 14th, Mr. Harden left, and disfigured himself with some different wearing apparel, and took passage from Asbury Station early on Tuesday morning for New York on the Central Railroad. The fact of this escape was telegraphed to various stations along the road, and a melainotype likeness of him was sent on the the Chief of Police, at New York. Gov. Newell was immediately informed of the facts, when he offered a reward of $500 for his apprehension and conviction. Also, the County of Warren have offered a reward of $500 for the same. Since the above was in type, we learn that the villian has been caught in Upper Canada.

Terrible Accident - Man Cut in Two

Last evening about 6 o'clock, a most terrible accident occurred on the Central Railroad, this side of Bloomsbury, about seven miles from Easton, by which a man named Thomas Comfort was instantly killed and his body nearly severed in twain. The particulars as gathered by our reporter, who was on the spot, are briefly as follows:

Comfort, who was a laborer on the road, was with others returning home from his day's work on the gravel train. Observing a hog on the track in front, he inclined his body over the side of the car to drive it off; at the same time the car passed over the animal, and the jar thus caused threw Comfort on the track, when the wheels passed over him, crushing his head, thigh and legs, and as before mentioned, almost severing his body - presenting a spectacle awful to behold.

Dr. Bergin, who was in the neighborhood, was called in to restore the parts to the natural position that the body might be seen by the family and friends, which was very neatly and artfully performed. Deceased leaves a wife and two children, who are almost frantic with grief.

Terrible Tragedy at Newton

A most heart-rending affair occurred at Newton, Sussex county a few days since, which has brought the most poignant grief upon one family and sadness upon many. A young and interesting daughter of Mr. George L. Van Sickle, (a respectable farmer living a short distance from the village) who had been for some time receiving the attentions of a young man named George Drake, also respectably connected, was induced to take an evening ride with him, during which Drake administered to her a drug for the purpose of producing an abortion. After suffering such agony that her screams were heard wherever they passed along, she was at a late hour taken to her home by the villain, in a speechless condition, and died in a few hours, without regaining her power to speak to her grief-stricken friends. A Coroner's jury was summoned, the young man arrested, and the case is now under the most scrutinizing investigation.

Murder in Stanhope

The Sussex Herald says that on Tuesday of last week, Charles V. Rue, who was proprietor of one of the hotels in Stanhope, found a man named Bill Robbins, who is well known around there as a man of bad character, sleeping in his hay mow, and wishing to put some hay or straw where Robbins was lying, disturbed his slumbers; which so exasperated Robbins that he began fighting and in the struggle Mr. Rue was thrown or fell down the stairs leading to the mow, breaking his arm and collar bone in the fall. His injuries were promptly attended to, but mortification set in and he died on Friday. Robbins, fled and rumor says hung himself at Waterloo on Sunday. He was a notoriously bad character, given to many small crimes. He had several times enlisted and each time enlisted and each time run away. He leaves a wife and family.

Sad

On Saturday afternoon last, a little boy about three years old, son of Jacob Lair, of this place, was so badly burned by its clothes taking fire that it died on Sunday afternoon from the effects of the burn, after suffering the most extreme pain. It appears that Mrs. Lair had just kindled a fire in the stove in the front room and had stepped out of doors a moment on some errand when she heard screams from the room and rushing in immediately found her little boy enveloped in flames. She smothered the fire speedily, but not it seems in time to save its life. It is supposed that the little boy had taken a small splinter of wood and was playing with it in the stove, by which means his clothes caught fire.

Mar. 7, 1866, Vol. XXVIII, No. 28 (1424)

About 8 1/2 o'clock on Wednesday night last Miss Lucy Shipley, a young lady seventeen years of age, residing at No. 206 Grove St., Jersey City, was burned in the most shocking manner and although alive last night, the physicians in attendance stated that she could not possibly survive through the night. Miss Shipley was in the act of removing a lamp from the mantel, when her dress took fire from the stove. This so alarmed her that she jumped suddenly back, causing the chimney and top, which were fastened by a spring, to give way, thereby scattering the fluid over her person and completely enveloping in flame. In this condition she rushed down stairs, where other members of the family tore up the carpet and by wrapping it around her, succeeded in extinguishing the flames. Her body was burned to nearly a crisp; and on one side the ribs were exposed and the flesh on the arms was nearly consumed.

Suicide

Thursday morning last, Mr. William Waldron, who resided near Mattison's Corner, in this township, committed suicide by hanging himself in his own wagon house... His age we presume is about 65 years...

And scarce had the echo of this terrible and fearful death been heard, ere the midnight quiet of our village is again broken by the cry of "suicide!" At a late hour on Saturday night, the cold and stiffened form of John Hulse, of this place, was discovered hanging to a beam in his own house... He leaves an invalid wife and a large family of small children to deplore his horrible fate.

Oct. 24th by the same, Charles B. Alpaugh to Mary E. Schuyler.

It is with feelings of heart felt sympathy and sorrow that we record the melancholy fate of Sarah, daughter of Mr. Wm. Rittenhouse, of Kingwood. The little girl, a bright child of some seven summers, was a pupil at the Baptisttown school. About 1 o'clock P.M. on Monday afternoon of last week, while the other scholars were out playing, her clothes caught fire from the coal stove. Upon discovering her danger the frightened child ran out of the door into the open air, where the breeze gave additional vigor to the fire. The teacher, catching several shawls, hastened after the girl and vainly endeavored to extinguish the fire, but the shawls being of a light texture, only increased the fire...

Fatal Accident

As Miss Shank, daughter of the gentleman who keeps the canal store in Point Pleasant, Pa., was walking home with two of her lady friends, on Monday night a week, the night being exceedingly dark, the three walked into the canal.

Mr. Henry Gaddis hearing their cries for help, succeeded in rescuing the two friends of Miss Shank in an insensible condition. Not knowing that there was another in the water, his attention was directed to the resuscitation of the two whom he had already rescued. - When it was discovered that Miss S. was in the canal, search was made, and the body recovered by the spirit had fled.

He was born at Clarksville, Rockland county, N.Y. in 1790....

A sad case of family bereavement occurred at Baltimore last week. On the 7th inst., a daughter, 11 years old, of Mr. Wendel Snyder, died of scarlet fever. Two other daughters, aged 18 and 20 years attended the funeral, and shortly after their return home were attacked by a similar disease. The elder partially recovered but the younger on Saturday evening was in a dying condition. The elder sister approached the bed of the dying girl, and immediately fell to the floor lifeless, and before morning the spirit of the other departed. Two other daughters are dangerously sick with the same disease.

Fatal Accident

On Friday morning last, Mr. David Anderson, whose parents reside at Mt. Airy, meet with a violent death by shooting. As near as we have been able to gather the facts of the case, it appears that Mr. A. had seen a rabbit near his father's house and had went into the house for the gun, remarking to his father that he would go out and shoot the rabbit. After a short absence the report of the gun was heard but David not returning in a reasonable time, his father went out to ascertain his whereabouts, when to his horror he saw the form of his son, cold in death, he having been shot through the head. Whether the gun was discharged by accident or desing is not positively known, but from some indications it is fair to presume that the discharge was accidental.

Murder in Middlesex
A murder which seems to have been of the most wanton character occurred on the farm of Mr. Peter Perrine, near Englishtown, on Tuesday evening. A colored man named Joseph Rivers disputed with the wife of another colored man named John Redick. Rivers went up stairs got a gun and dared Redick who had been taking his wife's part to go pit doors. He went and was shot by Rivers through the heart and lungs, expiring immediately. Rivers fled to Freehold and there gave himself up to the authorities, stating the murder was committed in self defense. A coroner's jury found him guilty of wilful murder and he lies in jail at New Brunswick awaiting trial.

Sad Drowning Accident

A party of eight persons engaged a sail boat at Newark for the purpose of taking a sail up the Passaic river. The party consisted of Mr. Frederick Ulmi, his wife, four children, sister-in-law, and a gentleman visiting them. While the pleasure seekers were admiring the beautiful scenery in the vicinity of Mount Pleasant Cemetery, a squall suddenly sprung up, and before the gentleman having the craft in charge could prepare for the emergency the boat capsized, throwing the whole party into the water. Unfortunately, aid was too far distant, and the mother, with two children, sank beneath the water. At the time of the occurrence the mother had her infant pressed closely in her arms and both went down together. The other little one was aged about 4 years. Mr. Ulmi, his remaining children and his visitors clung to the keel of the boat and were finally rescued.

The residence of Elisha Fiero at West Davenport, Delaware County, was the scene of a most brutal murder on Monday night last. - Fiero and his wife had retired to rest, and during the night two burglars entered their sleeping apartment. One of the thieves put his hand under their pillow, causing them to awake. Fiero raised his arm and as he did so the burglar discharged a pistol the ball passing between Mr. Fiero's fingers and entered the head of his wife, killing her instantly. The burglars then fled, and succeeded in making good their escape.

Sad Drowning Accident

We take from the Casket the particulars of a sad drowning accident which occurred on Wednesday night, April 28th, at Clarksville. It appears that David Conelly, John McNelly, Martha Bruce, and Mary Cooley, were to take a ride on the pond of the Hunterdon Manufacturing Co., upon a raft made of four barrels fastened together with boards, and when in the middle of the pond, where the water was about eight feet deep, they foolishly began to rock their vessel, which careened, throwing the whole party overboard. Conelly was the only one of the party that could swim, and he succeeded in getting to the shore with Miss Bruce, but was too much exhausted to attempt the rescue of the others, who had both sunk by this time. Wm. McConnell, Esq., seeing the state of affairs from his window, hastened to the rescue ... succeeded in getting to the shore with McNelly, who was almost lifeless, but by the untiring efforts of Dr. T. E. Hunt, who happened to be on the shore, he was restored to life. The body of Miss Cooley could not be found till about 10 1/2 o'clock, when life was entirely extinct, she having been in the water over four hours.

After her marriage her father moved from the old homestead, situated about one mile north of this town, and Mr. Cherry adopted it as his residence, near sixty years ago, and has lived there ever since. It is not many who have lived so long a time in the same house as Mrs. Cherry, embracing a period of 76 years from cradle to the grave.

Another Sad Drowning Case

Last Tuesday afternoon, about one o'clock, Sylvester, a son of Moses Q. and Sarah Wilson, of New Hope, in company with a young man named Stout, went into the canal above Moore's Station, to bathe. Wilson had procured a post, and after swimming upon it for some time, when directly opposite the residence of John A. Beaumont, it was washed from under him and he sank. His companion, seeing him go down, shouted for help, and Mr. Levi Stout, with whom he lived, and a neighbor ran to the spot but did not reach it till he had gone down the third time and was out of sight. The body was recovered about two hours after the accident and brought to Lambertville on the cars, and then taken to the home of the boy in New Hope. The deceased was in his fifteenth year.

Two Boys Roasted to Death

The charred remains of Michael Mahoney and James Caffrey, of Elizabeth, aged respectively about 12 years, were found in an ash pit at Hampton Junction, on Saturday morning the 7th inst. On the previous day they had stolen a ride on a train of the Central road, and not being discovered before reaching the Junction were put off there. They wandered about until night, when becoming cold they took up their quarters for the night in the pit used for hauling the fire from the locomotives. During the night the live coals and ashes from several locomotives were hauled out into the pit where the boys were sleeping, completely covering them up and suffocating them. Both bodies were horribly burned.

A Boy Commits Suicide

A melancholy affair occurred at Hampton Junction on Wednesday 4th inst., the facts of which we give below, so far as ascertained. It seems Mr. Wandling a highly respectable farmer near the Junction, had in his employ, Peter Cones, a boy about sixteen years of age. During the week the lad complained of being unwell, and Mr. W. favored him so much as possible, and required him only to pick berries and do the barn work. On Wednesday, Mr. W. left home and on his return in the evening he found that the work had not been, or the boy had not been seen. While in the hay mow he came in contact with the body of the boy suspended to the rafters by a rope.

Deaths

In this village, April 12th, 1870, Phoebe, wife of Mahlon Smith, in the 79th year of her age.

Sad Fatality

A most heart-rending accident occurred at Bethlehem last Wednesday. A little son of Charles Opdycke, aged five years, while riding on a farm wagon with his father's hired man, was thrown off by the wagon striking a stone or post, and falling under the wheels was crushed to death.

Hon. John H. Williamson, who represented the Democracy of the first Assembly District of this County, in the Legislature of 1868-69, died at his residence in Ringoes on Tuesday last, after a long and painful illness.

News Items

The most horrible murders since the Probst butchery, were committed at Baltimore last Thursday. Mrs. Catherine Marsh, residing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dwyer, at 99 Canal street, murdered her four children, by cutting their throats. She also cut the throat of her mother, who is not expected to recover. The eldest of the children was only 8 years old, the youngest two years and a half. The circumstances, as detailed elsewhere, indicate that the murderess was insane.

James Henry, a passenger on the emigrant train, west from New York to San Francisco, fell from the cars while in motion, at Wentztown Station, East Pennsylvania Railroad, Monday night and his body was severed in twain.

At Greenfield, Wis., on Wednesday, Mrs. Lydia Duville was found dead, hanging by a rope, and locked up in a room of her house. A divorce suit was pending between her and her husband, and the latter has been arrested.

Local News

Deaths - Since our last issue, death has brought sorrow into several households ...

On Wednesday night last, Hugh Capner, one of our oldest inhabitants, died at his residence in this town, after a very long illness... To him belonged the distinction of erecting the first public hall ever built in Flemington, and also the largest dwellinghouse. He was a farmer by occupation and his particular fancy was in raising fine stock. He was about 70 years of age.

On Friday morning, James Harrison, another of our oldest citizens, died suddenly at his residence on Bonnell street. Mr. Harrison (more familiarly known as "General") had lived in this place and vicinity for many years... He was a butcher by trade... Among the first things we can remember was the ringing of "General" Harrison's bell as he drove about town with his meat wagon.

On Thursday evening, at Copper Hill, Theodore Bellis, son of Peter Bellis, died and on Friday his sister, Mrs. Hartpence, followed him. Both had been suffering with consumption. Mr. Bellis had been married but about six months, and his sister a little over a year. Their funerals took place on Sunday morning, both at the same time at Larison's.

In this township, on Thursday, Josephus Hinkley, son of John Hinkley, died while yet in the bud of youth, of scrofula.

A Trenton paper says that Mr. Knowles, who moved from Yardleysville to that city on the first of April, and opened a grocery store at the corner of Warren and Perry streets, died very suddenly on Sunday morning last.

Brutal Murder of a Boy

Reports of a brutal murder have reached Milford, Pa., from Polk township, one of the back towns of Monroe county. The locality being so isolated, minute particulars have not yet been received. It seems that a boy, aged ten years, named, Jas. Muffley, was visiting at his grandmother's, a Mrs. Hawk, in Polk township.... She procured assistance, the door was forced open and a brief search discovered the body of the little boy lying in the cellar in a pool of blood, with the throat cut from ear to ear...

John Hill of Georgia was a man kissing Mrs. Hill, and John jumped into the river and drowned himself.

State Notes:

On Saturday afternoon, three boys went into a grove in Kearny township, Hudson county, to gather chestnuts. One of the lads, named Henry Fitzmire, climbed a tree in order to shake it. While thus engaged the limb on which he stood broke, and he was thrown to the ground. He struck on his head, and his neck was broken. He died instantly. He was fourteen years old.

Information was received at police headquarters, at Newark, on Saturday night, that John Strange, a carpenter of that place, had buried an infant in his yard. A detective was sent to the place, who found the body of a new born infant covered with lime and buried in the back yard. It was ascertained that the child was born on Friday night, and that the father drowned it in a bucket of water, and buried it as described. The physician who held a post mortem examination pronounced that it had been born alive and healthy.

Remarkable Coincidence
A correspondent of the New York Evangelist gives the particulars of the sudden death of Rev. Mr. Kauffman in his pulpit at Matawan, Monmouth county, and says he read the hymn beginning "O could I speak the matchless worth" in a feeble tone... He was then compelled to stop and sat down, while the hymn was sung... fell over from a paralytic stroke and became unconscious, continuing so until death the next day. Rev. Mr. Shafer who was pastor of the same church about thirty years ago, and subsequently at Newton, fell dead a few years since in his pulpit from apoplexy, just after he had read the same lines.

Court

William Aller vs. Trimmer Aller, et al. This was an action upon a promissory note for $500, payable to Henry T. Quirk, purporting to be signed by Trimmer Aller and William Sutton, and endorsed by the plaintiff. Trimmer Aller and William Sutton were partners in the distilling business in Readington township, and being obliged to borrow money to pay their tax, it was alleged by Aller that Sutton wished him to procure the money, and gave him authority to sign a noted, and that he did sign Sutton's and his own to this note, gave his father for security, procured the money of Quirk. Afterwards the plaintiff took up the note, and brought suit. Sutton filed a plea, and contended that he had given no authority to Aller to sign his name to the note, but that it was the understanding that Trimmer Aller was to raise this money himself. The Court charged the jury that if the money for which the note was given, was used for the firm, Aller had a perfect right to sign the name of his partner thereto. Verdict for plaintiff, for amount of note.

Suicide of a Noted Swindler

A dispatch from Fort Garry, Manitoba, conveying the intelligence of the death by suicide of Lord Gordon, alias Lord Glencairn, alias Gordon Gordon...

A Strange Story

A Phillipsburg dispatch of last Wednesday contains a strange story. A few days since Thomas Koch, one of the wealthiest farmers of Warren county, died, and the circumstances were so singular that every one concluded that he must have been murdered. Deceased was 65 years of age. By his first wife he had a son and two daughters, who are now grown up. Six years ago, his first wife died and about two years ago he remarried again. Nothing is said against the second wife, either as to her character, but the step-children, who generally make themselves useful in such cases, made the domestic temperature a little too hot for the second Mrs. Koch, and after suffering two years she went home to her relatives.

At that time there was employed in the family a very pretty servant girl named Esther Walton, and between her and Koch there sprang up, immediately after the departure of the wife, and intimacy that was altogether unaccountable, except on the supposition that she had taken the wife's place without the formality of a marriage ceremony that, was it would have been well, was probably considered useless. The children urged her discharge, but to this Koch would never consent, but lavished presents of jewelry and dresses on the girl, took her riding, and in every way treated her as if she were the head of the household, scarcely permitting her to be out of his sight for an hour.
On Wednesday last Koch was taken suddenly ill, Friday he became unconscious and Monday he died. A few hours before he breathed his last, Esther, and a friend of hers named Lizzie Wells, from Philadelphia, who had been visiting her, fled from the house without even waiting for their trunks. She was last seen in Phillipsburg, and went from there to Flatfields, from which place she could not be traced.

Rumors immediately prevailed that Esther had poisoned the old man to secure his property, it being said that he had deeded the bulk of the estate to her. This story had been circulated before the girl’s flight, and she denied it.

A post-mortem was made, when it was found that Koch’s death resulted from congestion of the lungs and pleurisy, and no poison was found in his body. The funeral took place yesterday, the authorities being satisfied that Miss Walton had nothing to do with his death, but that her flight was occasioned by the fear that she would be charged with killing him on account of their relations and the suddenness of his death. It is not known, as yet, what disposition Koch made of his property, as his will had not been examined.

A curious case of suicide has been revealed at Marlton, by the Coroner’s inquest in the case of Miss Lavina Casgrove, aged 14 years. A dance was given in the neighborhood, and she was invited to attend. Her mother refused to allow her. She immediately dispatched her brother for some laudanum, and having received it retired to her room and drank the fatal dose. Several hours later she was found dead by her mother.

Patrick Shaw, a resident of East Newark, was attacked with cholera-morbus Wednesday morning and grew so bad during the day that in the afternoon he sent for a doctor and notary. While the latter was drawing up a will, Shaw was seized with convulsions... the will was unsigned.

Katie Tucker was shot dead by a young man named Garizun, at Moffitsville, S.C., a day or two since. Garizun, who was employed by the father of the young lady, fell in love with her, and then became jealous of a supposed rival. He deliberately shot Miss Tucker while they were sitting in the parlor with her father.

Death of Col. Alexander

Col. William C. Alexander, President of the Equitable Life Insurance Company, died at the Sturtevant House, New York, on Sunday evening week.

A few days ago a family named Townsend, living in Jersey City, buried a young son, and on Monday his mother went to the cemetery to put some flowers on the grave. She was accompanied by another son, Henry, aged four years. While she was decorating the grave, the little fellow sat down at the foot of his grandmother's tomb-stone. In a few minutes the mother's attention was attracted by hearing a crash and a scream of agony and on turning about she was horrified to find that the stone had falled on the boy. When it was removed life was found to be extinct and the body was crushed in a shocking manner.

Charles G. Sisson, one of the foremost capitalists of New Jersey, died Friday evening last, at his residence in Tenafly. He was born in Middletown, Conn.... He settled in Jersey City about 30 years ago, and became a great contractor for public works....

Burned To Death By His Own Act

An Igersoll, Ont., dispatch of Sunday says: Fire was discovered in the cells under the market this morning where a man named David Armour had been placed the evening before in a drunken condition. After an entrance had been forced, Armour’s body was found in a kneeling position, his elbows resting on bunk. His feet and part of his legs were burned to a crisp...

Dr. Henry A. H. Martin, locally known in Plainfield as "the man whom everybody trusted," died on Friday and was buried on Monday afternoon...

It is reported that Charles Miller, who resided on the road between Arcola and Hackensack, near the latter place, eloped on Thursday night with his step-daughter. Mr. Miller is about 37 years of age, and some four years ago married a well-to-do widow much older than himself, whose daughter, now 24 years old, has been living in the family.
In Greenpoint, L.I., Thursday, Mrs. Jones put two young children in a cradle with a pet cat, near the fireplace, and went about her work. On retuming she saw that the cradle had been overturned. One of the children had been burned to a crisp and the other was dead of suffocation in the hot embers.

Terrible Death

William Van Fleet, a carpenter at Three Bridges, met his death in a sudden and terrible manner on Wednesday morning last. He had been engaged on the new church at Three Bridges and on the above morning went out upon the roof to make a measurement about the steeple. The roof was wet and slippery from the rain of the previous night and while the unfortunate man was standing by the steeple making the measurement, slipped and fell to the ground a distance of nearly thirty feet, breaking his neck and mangling him in a shocking manner... He was a resident of this town a year or two ago. A wife and two children are left to mourn his loss.

George H. Duyckinck, aged about 50 years died almost instantly on Thursday night last, at his residence near New Germantown. He was apparently in his usual health at the time of retiring to bed. Almost immediately after getting into bed he threw one arm across his wife, who spoke to him, but as he made no reply, she looked at him, and saw that he was dead. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn his sudden death.

A Death Stricken Family

The Washington (N.J.) Star says: It will be remembered that Dr. Slack, of Troutdale, died last summer leaving a wife and four children to mourn his loss. Now it becomes our painful duty to announce that his daughter Carrie, a little girl of eight years, died some two weeks ago of diptheria. Her remains, like those of her father, were taken to Philadelphia for interment. Before the return of Mrs. Slack and her remaining children to Troutdale, however, her little Theodore, a boy of four years was taken sick with same dread malady and died in a few days. Thus has Mrs. Slack lost her husband and two children in less than five months.

Death of Charles Tomlinson

... The most melancholy task we have ever been called upon to perform is to announce the death of our friend and employer, Charles Tomlinson, the editor of this paper. This sad event took place on Thursday morning last, in New York, where he had gone two weeks previously to receive treatment for heart disease... Charles Tomlinson was born in Kingwood township, Hunterdon county, N.J., October 29, 1819. His father was Francis Tomlinson, who kept the store at the little village of Kingwood.... Married Miss Margaret Barcroft, an estimable lady, daughter of Mr. Aaron Barcroft, of Kingwood township.... Mrs. Tomlison being for some years distressingly afflicted with a bronchial affection, which finally ended her life July 24, 1872.... In the early part of 1874, he concluded to marry again, choosing for his companion, Miss Carrie Borden, an agreeable and accomplished lady of Somerville, N.J...

A Sensation at Englewood

Englewood has a horrible sensation. In June last as five-year-old boy named Charles Powell disappeared suddenly from the residence of his widowed mother, and though the most vigorous search was made for him he was not found. An uncle of the boy who quarreled with Mrs. Powell concerning the child’s affairs was suspected of murdering him, but no clue could fasten the mystery upon him. The matter rested until last Friday evening, when the remains of the child were found in the cistern of an adjoining yard attached to the residence of the parish priest, Father Smith. This yard was the place where he had last been seen alive. On being interviewed Father Smith told the following remarkable story: ... He was buried on Saturday.

A Distressing Accident

One of the saddest affairs that has ever happened in Ocean county occurred at Point Pleasant Friday, in the tragic end of a bright and promising youth named Robert Hance, aged 12 years. The particulars are as follows: A flock of wild geese were flying over his father’s house and the boy’s brother, Abraham, aged 15, on seeing it, rushed in for a gun to shoot at the fowl. With the gun in his hand, he passed through the door of the house and the trigger coming in contact with something the contents were suddenly discharged and entered the side of his unfortunate brother, Robert, who was standing but ten feet distant. The wounded youth fell prostrate on the ground, uttered an agonizing groan, ejaculated "mother!" and expired in ten minutes after the occurrence. His father, John Hance is a man of good family, and well and favorably known throughout the county. He is engaged in mercantile pursuits at Point Pleasant.

Mrs. Catherine Lewis, better known as Katy Lewis, died at Fort Lee, Bergen county, on Thursday, at the age of over eighty years. She was the widow of a Commander in the United States Navy who won his rank from the deck.

While waiting upon customers in his grocery store on Saturday evening, John Colter, of Orange, was suddenly prostrated with apoplexy. Medical attendance was at once summoned and everything done to restore him to life but without avail, and in two hours he was dead.

While Thomas Lynch was engaged at work in one of the shafts at the new tunnel in Bergen Hill, Saturday evening, a stone fell on his head and injured him so seriously that fatal results are feared.

John Fagin had his clothing caught in shaft 24, Saturday, by a hook projecting from a bucket which was being raised and was drawn forty feet up the shaft. He then fell to the bottom, receiving fatal injuries.

An Old Homestead

In these Centennial times, says the Warren Democrat, anything that has a flavor of old age, is interesting, particularly when it is a local matter. Over in Franklin township, in this county, there is a farm of 200 acres owned by Mr. Geo. H. Weller that has been in possession of his family for 133 years. Phillip Weller came from Germany in 1730, and settled in Amwell township, Hunterdon county, near what is now call Ringoes Tavern. In 1742, he purchased a very large tract of land on the Pohatcong Creek, in Greenwich township, Sussex county (now Franklin township, Warren county) of which the 200 acres referred to is a part. This land has come down from father to son for four generations. There is a family burying ground, about 125 years old, and where there lie buried the dead of the Weller family for seven generations.

Smothered To Death

It was cold, bitter cold, when Fred. B. Braston and his wife left their residence in Rochester, N.Y., to visit the parents of Mrs. Braston. They took with them their only child, a girl four months old. To protect the child from winter’s cold, they carefully wrapped her in a heavy shawl. Passing down North St. Paul street they crossed Vincent Place bridge. While going over the bridge the child cried, and the mother, thinking that the cold wind from the gulf below troubled the little one, drew her closer to her breast and wrapped the shawl more closely. The child cried once upon Lake avenue and then was still. On their arrival at home the child was found to be dead, and a physician, after examination, announced that it had been smothered by the shawl in which it had been too closely wrapped.

A Sad Story

A sad story comes from Flatbush, Long Island. On the 31st of October, Mr. John Beekman James, of the firm of James & Ernest, No. 49 Broadway, buried his little boy, two years of age, who died of scarlet fever. Ten days afterward his eldest son, four years of age, also died of the same malady, and Sunday, January 2, relatives and friends gathered at the little Church of St. Paul’s, Flatbush, to pay their last tribute of respect to Mr. James himself, who died two days before from the same disease. Mr. James, who was well-known business man, was in the thirty-seventh year of his age.

Choked To Death

James Aery, an employee at the Diamond State Rolling Mill, of Wilmington, was choked to death while eating dinner on Christmas.

A very remarkable coincidence is related in connection with Mrs. Priscilla Smith (relict of the late Jesse Smith), who died several years ago. She was born in 1812, on the 9th day of the 9th month, at the 9th hour of the day, and died in 1872 on the 9th day of the 9th month, at the 9th hour of the day, 90 years of age. She was a resident of Woodbury, N.J., where she passed the most of her life and when she died was the oldest person in that quiet little town.

Father Boehm’s Death

The Rev. Henry Boehm, who on the 8th of last June celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of his birth, and who was doubtless the oldest clergyman in the world, died on Staten Island on Tuesday evening. Father Boehm was born in Lancaster County, Pa., and for a year was one of King George’s subjects. He joined the Methodist church when he was twenty-one years of age and was soon afterward licensed to preach. For more than thirty years has been in the Jersey City Conference, and as long ago as 1842 was on the list of supernumeraries...

A Boy Kills His Brother
A painful sensation was created in Freehold yesterday afternoon by an accident which occurred at the residence of Mr. John Henry Armstrong, in Atlantic township. From what we can gather it appears that Mr. Armstrong’s son, Edward, about 18 years of age, was taking a shot-gun from the hooks on the wall where it was hanging, when the cock caught in something and the gun was exploded, the whole charge entering the head of his little brother, aged between 4 and 5 years, who was standing by, killing him instantly. – Monmouth Democrat, Feb. 3.

A Distinguished Editor Killed

Mr. Bloss, for the past twenty-five years editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer, who is widely known throughout the country, was instantly killed about half-past seven o’clock Sunday night while walking on the track of the Little Miami railroad, near Branch Hill station, where he resided.... He was fifty years of age, born in Derby, Vt., and leaves a wife and four children.

Terrible Drowning Accident

On Sunday afternoon last, two young boys, sons of John Gary, and Alexander Smith, a married man aged about 40 years, and all living in the vicinity of Neshanic, went into the river to bathe. While in the water one of the Gray boys was seized with the cramp and his brother went to his rescue. He was immediately seized in a death grip, and as both were in deep water and likely to drown, the man Smith went out to rescue them. He too was seized by both boys and all were drowned.

Mr. David LaReu, clock maker, of Millstone, went fishing in the river near the railroad bridge; his daughter, four years old, accompanying him. They were there an hour or two and then returned home, near by. At tea time the little girl was missed, and a hunt through the village failed to discover her. Mr. LaReu then thought that possibly she might have gone back to the river, and taking a rake he proceeded to the spot and soon brought the dead body of his child to the surface.

A Terrible Tragedy – Easton Pa., June 5th
The terrible Laros poisoning case is creating an unparalleled excitement here, especially since the confession of the son that he poisoned the family.
The case is one of the strangest that has ever transpired, and shows Allen Laros, the poisoner, a thoroughly cold-blooded villain.
The family of Martin Laros consisted of seventeen children, thirteen of whom are now living. Those who were in his household were Allen, Alvin, Clara, Alice, and a grandchild. Moses Schug, also an inmate of his household, is a gentleman sixty-two years of age.
The father and mother are both dead, but the children have all recovered. Mr. Schug now lies in a very critical condition, and although there is very slight hope that he may partially recover, he will never be absolutely cured of the effects of the poison....

Baltimore, June 16
A very remarkable double tragedy has been enacted at Blermont Mills, Hartford county, in this State. A boy from the House of Refuge, named Christian Klotz, murdered the daughter of his employer, an attractive girl of 17, in the cellar while she was preparing breakfast yesterday.... A man in the crowd suggested that hanging was equally expeditious, and Klotz, in the most wonderful coolness fastened the rope around his neck again, climbed the tree unaided, tied the rope to a limb, and with the utmost sang freid, said “good bye” and let himself drop. His neck was broken immediately.

Drowned

On Sunday, 2d inst., a young man, named Lorin Voorhees, son of Elias Voorhees of Round Valley, went into the water at Hoffman’s mill-pond to bathe. While in the water he was taken with severe cramps, and although tow other young men were with him, he was carried under and drowned.

Between two and three o’clock on Tuesday morning, T. J. Wyles, of Elizabeth, entered his house under the influence of liquor and lighted a kerosene lamp. Shortly afterwards he overturned it upon the floor, which set the house on fire. Neighbors saw the flames and were soon there and succeeded in rescuing the drunken man and his wife from the burning building. Unobserved, however, he entered the house to get a coat, and his perilous predicament was not known until his cries for help were heard from the second story. Every effort was made to save him, but in vain, and he was burned with the dwelling.

James McTate, residing in Broome street, Jersey City, was visited Wednesday night by his daughter and her infant child. A quantity of beer was procured in which they indulged to such an extent that both father and daughter became intoxicated. While in that condition, the mother fell over on her child and smothered it.

A Woman Killed While Trying To Save Her Dog

On Monday evening of last week, while Mrs. Kupp and Mrs. Walker were walking on the Central track, through “Black Dan’s Cut”, just at the lower end of town, the passenger train due here at 6:57 came rushing down at full speed and Mrs. Kupp’s dog ran on the track and commenced barking at it. Mrs. Kupp, in her anxiety to save him, went on the track after him, and in spite of the entreaties and warnings of her friend, would not get off till she had saved the dog. The engineer of the train applied the brakes and blew his whistle, but it was of no avail, the engine striking Mrs. Kupp throwing her in the air and killing her instantly. Mrs. Kupp was about forty years of age, and leaves a husband and two children. - Warren Democrats.

Shocking Accident At Paterson

A terrible accident occurred Monday afternoon last at Scott’s calico print works, on the corner of Mill and Van Houten streets, Paterson. William De Groen, who was employed in the bleaching department was walking near a large vat when he slipped on the floor and fell against the shafting which runs the rollers. His clothing came in contact with the machinery, and he was caught up and whirled around with great rapidity. After a few revolutions his clothing gave way, and he was stripped completely naked. The nude body was then whirled along the rollers the whole width of the room and precipitated into a vat filled with a boiling compound. From this he emerged in a few seconds, although when he attempted to walk he fell prostrate on the floor. Some of his fellow workmen ran to his assistance and he attempted to speak to them, but on opening his mouth his whiskers and the flesh from his cheeks fell off. The flesh hung from his body in shreds, so that ribs were visible in places, while his sight was gone. His hair had fallen off and altogether he presented such a sickening appearance that some of the workmen fainted. Notwithstanding his terrible injuries, he lived until 4 o’clock on Tuesday morning, when death released him from his sufferings. The deceased was twenty-seven years old, married, and resided at No. 49 Holsman street.

A young man named Lewis Murdock died at Haddonfield last week from a singular cause. He had been at work in the field, and came into the house in the evening whirling a stick attached to a string around his head. The piece of wood struck him, as was supposed, lightly, and he rubbed the part which had been hit, as one is wont to do under the circumstances. He ate his supper, went to bed, and did not appear ill. Toward midnight his bedfellow was disturbed by Murdock’s restlessness, and arose, leaving him alone. In the morning the youth was found dead.

A heart-rending accident was that which happened near Rochester on Saturday afternoon. Miss Sarah D. Van Wagener, niece of William A. Davies, President of the Farmer’s and Manufacturer’s Bank, went to her room and had been absent only a short time when her aunt heard piercing shrieks. Hurrying to the spot with a visitor, she found Miss Van Wagener enveloped in flames... She suffered the most intense agony, and died Sunday morning, her relatives who were summoned from New York, surrounding her bedside. She said that she caught fire from the gas. She was an orphan, eighteen years of age, and a beautiful and accomplished girl.

Sudden Death

It is the custom during the revival services in the M. E. Church at Allertown, to hold a prayer meeting before the regular service. Mr. Yawger, the leader, called upon Mr. Steward W. Alpaugh, son of George Alpaugh, near Clinton, to pray. He knelt, uttered a few words and fell back insensible. His wife was sitting at his side in the pew. He was carried to the house of Mr. J. N. Storr near the church. Dr. Grandon was sent for and every effort was made to revive him but it was in vain.... Mr. Alpaugh leaves a widow but no children.

Dr. Cicero Hunt, of Ringoes, died at his residence in that place on the 1st inst., aged about 77 years.

A Shocking Accident

About two o'clock on Thursday morning, 11th, Samuel Morris and his wife and two children, who lived in a two-story frame house belonging to Doctor James Bean, near Cranberry Park, New Hanover township, Burlington county, were awakened by flames bursting from the floor of their bedroom, and volumes of suffocating smoke. Mr. Morris took one of the children, aged about eleven years, in his arms and started down the stairway. Mrs. Morris attempted to follow him, but was driven back by the flames and smoke. She then went to the window and lowered the child to the arms of those who had assembled below, and then jumped out herself, reaching the ground unharmed.... On Thursday searched was made among the ruins for the remains of the unfortunate father and child but nothing could be found but two skulls and a few other bones... Mr. Morris was about fifty years of age, and was a laboring man.

Killed By Lightning
Jacob Kuntz has a truck farm in North Bergen, near Hampstead Station, on the Midland Railroad. At the commencement of the terrific storm of last Tuesday afternoon, four persons were at work pulling weeds in one of the fields on the place. One of them, Augustus Sandow, was engaged near the house occupied by Kuntz, and Sandow's wife, Eliza, with a babe 10 months old in her arms, was working at a distance with a boy of 14, named Frederick Muller. When the rain began to fall the man went into the house, and as the storm increased the woman and the boy took shelter in an old shed at the edge of the field. The woman stood watching and signalling her husband at the entrance to her place of refuge for a moment before she entered. Two minutes later the lightning struck the shed, splintering it and throwing the fragments some distance. The husband seeing the shed struck, rushed to the spot and found his wife and the boy Muller lying dead upon the floor, within two feet of the doorway. They had evidently died instantaneously upon being struck. The mother had fallen with her babe in her arms, and the little one lived only fifteen minutes.

Old Papers
While tearing down a very old house on the farm of Mr. John Kuhl, near Klinesville, a few days ago, Mr. Samuel Bodine, the carpenter found between the floor and joice of the building two pieces of time-stained paper, which bear the following messages written in clear hands. The first reads:

Dec. 13th, 1776,
I hereby certify that Samuel Thatcher this day took the oath of fealty before me.
C. Shimor.

On the reverse side of this certificate is written the following official endorsement:

It is his Excellency, Lt. General Lord Cornwallis, his orders that no person on any account presume to molest or injure Samuel Thatcher, in his person or property.
I. Sinker
Aid de Camp.
By his Excellency's orders,
Pennington, Dec. 13, 1776.

The other piece of paper, ragged, ill-shapen and of exceedingly rough texture, is a justices certificate of James Willson's "loyalty" to the tyrant George the Third, and reads as follows:

New Jersey,
Monmouth.
This is to certify that James Willson, of Hunterdon county, personally appeared before me, John Taylor, one of his Majestics' Justices of the Peace of the county aforesaid, who made oath that he would bear Faith and True Allegiance to his Majesties' King George the Third.

A Bridal Death Bed
Miss Josephine Brown, who had been rapidly declining with consumption for a month or more, was married on Friday last at 3 o'clock, A.M., by the Rev. George L. Dobbins, to Mr. Thomas Porter, thus consummating an engagement which both had looked forward too as the joy of their lives. But the destroyer, which had taken a dear father and sister but a few short months before, was fast approaching and the mournful satisfaction of being a bride for a few hours, seemed a comfort that assuaged the grief of parting with him she had loved long and so well.... she died a few hours after, a bride in death. -

A Horrible Accident

Mrs. McClernand, a young married woman, who resided at No. 36 Railroad avenue, Jersey City, was the victim of a horrible accident on last Saturday night. Desiring a new pair of shoes she went out to purchase them while her husband remained at home in charge of their family of three little ones. While the railroad gate was being lowered she passed beneath it on the track, under the impression probably that she could pass over the track before the uncoming train could reach her. She accomplished that feat easily enough, but as she stepped on the other track, she stepped in advance of another train moving into the depot... She was hurled beneath the wheels, and her head being thrown over one of the rails, was cut entirely from her body.... She was a comely woman and but twenty seven years of age. The remains were buried on Monday from St. Peter's Church.

Death Of A Large Woman
One of the largest women in the World, Fannie Wallace, died last Wednesday at Ephratt, Lancaster county. She was fifty-four years old, seven feet four inches in height and weighed five hundred and eighty-five pounds. Her coffin was seven feet eight inches in length, three feet six inches in depth, four feet wide at the centre and two feet wide at the foot. It required eight men with block and tackle to lower her remains into the grave.

BirthDay Celeberation

The relatives and friends of the venerable "uncle" John Kline, who lives about a mile from Readington, celebrated the old gentleman's ninety-third birthday on Wednesday last, Aug. 8th.

Mr. Thomas Taylor, after a life of more than four score years, died at his residence in Frenchtown on the 10th inst. He was born near Bapisttown, moving into Frenchtown twenty years ago. He was twice married, his first wife being a daughter of William Coughlin, of Kingwood, who died a few years afterward. The second wife was Sarah Ann Stryker, who still survives him together with eight children.

Mr. John Sine, another of Frenchtown's prominent citizens, died on the 12th inst. He was born in Kingwood township in 1806. In 1841 the people of his township elected him Constable, in which office he continued several years... Two grand-children are the only near relatives he leaves.

State Items:

He leaves a wife and two children.
Dragged To Death By A Drunkard

The Shenandoah (Pa.) Weekly Herald, under date of August 24th, relates the following: Two men were terribly and fatally mutilated on the Norristown branch of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad on Tuesday near the depot in Philadelphia. A train was being made up when a flagman named Henry Stout saw an intoxicated man on the tracks, who apparently was unconscious of his danger. As the cars neared the man the flagman tried to pull the drunken man away, but to this the stranger objected... For a second or two the men swayed backward and forward, and then the stranger, being the more powerful man of the two, dragged the flagman to the ground and fell himself just as the cars reached them.... From a pawn ticket found on the person of the stranger his name is supposed to be R. Link, of Bucks County. Stout breathed his last at 10:25 o'clock, and at 11 o'clock the man Link expired. Stout was twenty-nine years of age.

Court Proceedings

On Monday of last week Court again convened and the following indictments were tried:

The State v. John Sutton - Indictment for assault upon Eliza Hendershot. The defendant went to the house of Mrs. Hendershot, in the township of Tewksbury, and as she alleged, pounded and kicked upon the door, using profane and indecent language, and threatening her bodily harm. The defendant testified that he only knocked at the door, denied the threats, and insisted that although some words passed between them, Mrs. Hendershot used the more abusive language of the two. Verdict, guilty. Sentenced to one year in State Prison.

Death Of Houston Thornton

Houston Thornton, familiarly known as "General" Thornton, died at his mother's residence in Lambertville, on the 15th inst., after a very brief illness. Deceased was an engineer on the Belvidere Division and had been for many years. Nineteen years ago the 6th of last July, at 6 o'clock in the morning, he was severely injured in a railroad disaster at Washington's Crossing, and probably no man survived under like circumstances. One leg was so completely crushed and broken that it was amputated the same day; the other leg was broken above the knee and crushed below the knee-cap so that the splintered bone fell out; the foot was broken; his arms and shoulder broken; several ribs broken; his teeth broken out, and his whole person scalded to such a extent that he was unrecognizable. He was cut out of the engine with an axe, having fell directly in front of the furnace door and being caught between the engine and tender. With all this he refused stimulants, and witnessed the amputation of his leg. Twice was a council of physicians called to amputate the other leg, but he firmly refused to have it done. Month after month he lay upon his back, strapped down, and suffered the most excruciating pain. He was the living dead man. Years passed by and then equipped with one cork leg and the other protected by iron supporters, he resumed his employment upon the railroad, notwithstanding he was tendered an easy position in the superintendent's office. He was a good and reliable engineer, and a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, by all of whom he was highly esteemed. - Frenchtown Press.

A Sad Affair

An explosion occurred on the east bank of the Passaic river Monday evening, that carried consternation and wailing into one house in Newark, where preparations were busily going on for a festive scene.

During a chemical test in the factory of the Messrs. Thomas & Bigelow, at their works on the plank road, near the bridge over the Passaic river, a copper tank on the second floor of the building exploded, and blew the building to atoms. George W. Price, who had been employed in doing carpenter work at the factory, was struck by a piece of timber and thrown a distance of more than twenty feet. His body was cut almost in two above the hips, the backbone being broken. He was killed instantly.

The saddest part of the story is yet to be told. Mr. Price resided with his wife and three children at 43 Jefferson street. It was his thirty-fourth birthday... Guests had been invited, among whom was the Chief and members of the fire department, refreshments provided, and the children, the eldest about twelve years of age and the youngest a little over two years, were attired in their best... The first ring at the door bell was that of William R. Price, stoker of No. 1 Engine Company, a brother of George, who came as a messenger, bearing the terrible tidings...

The Milford Disaster

Excitement continued great all through the past week in the vicinity of the terrible railroad calamity at Milford. Workmen had much difficulty in removing the broken engine and cars from the creek, and hundreds of people lined the banks of the stream eager to see the work accomplished and to see whether any of the bodies of the lost were recovered. It is now believed that eight persons lost their lives in the disaster.

One body, that of Jonathan Thornton, the engineer of the ill-fated train, was found last Thursday morning by Frank Collins, a farmer, floating in the Delaware river at Robbins' wharf, opposite White Hills.... On the same day the body of Manhattan Smith, of No. 8 Turpin street, Trenton, was found floating in the Delaware, at Tumble, by Tomlinson Kugler. On Friday morning, at an early hour, the body of Thomas E. Hamilton, of Philadelphia, was found in the river opposite the railroad station in Frenchtown, by Charles A. Slack, and a few hours later Henry C. Roberson picked up the body of J. W. McElroy, also of Philadelphia, in the river opposite Sixth street, Frenchtown.

The body of the conductor of the train, Thomas Reading, was found on Saturday near the scene of disaster...

Death of Locton Hanson

It is today our sad duty to record the death of a young and noble-minded friend, and for a period of five years previous to April last, an office mate. We refer to Locton Hanson, son of George Hanson, Esq., of this place. The death of this young man occurred on Thursday night last. For a year past we had painfully observed the fatal march of disease upon him, and it was with the hope that its relentless grip might be loosened that he left the printing office...

We last week inadvertently omitted to mention the death of one of our former townsmen, Lewis H. Staats, which occurred at Newark on the 12th inst. Deceased removed from this place to Newark in the spring of 1876.... His remains were interred at Plainfield on Monday last.

Death of a Journalist

Amid the pleasures of newspaper life are intermingled the sorrows. Death is always an unwelcome visitor, and when the unrelenting monster lays his icy hand upon one of our brother editors, we feel a particular sadness, reflecting that it is but a question of a little time when some brother will be called upon to write our obituary. Mr. Eli Osmun, editor of the Hackettsstown Gazette, who for many years past has been a sufferer from consumption, died at his residence in Hackettsstown on Sunday week last, and on Thursday last his remains were conveyed to their last resting place followed by many friends.

Another sudden death was that of William R. Slater, son of Capt. Wm. H. Slater, which occurred at his father's house in Washington, D.C., yesterday morning, from typhoid fever. The remains will be brought to this place by the up train on Thursday morning of this week. The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, from the Baptist Church... His age was 22 years.

A Domestic Tragedy

A domestic tragedy occurred at Fultonville, Ill., on Wednesday, which from the prominence of the parties concerned, creates intense excitement in that part of the State. Geo. Ambruster, a wealthy real estate owner, after an absence of several days from home, suddenly returned, and upon his arrival at once proceeded to his residence.
He thought at first no one was at home, but soon heard voices coming from a bedroom in the upper portion of the house. He entered and there found his wife, who had always borne the highest character for refinement and Christian virtue, and John T. Richards, a well known business man of that place. Ambruster opened a stand drawer, drew out a revolver and fired several shots at the guilty pair, which took deadly effect. Richards lived but a short time, and Mrs. Ambruster died about two hours later.

The Deadly Spitz
A little boy named Charles Edward Leicrick, in Philadelphia, was bitten by a Spitz dog recently and died of that horrible disease hydrophobia. The convulsions lasted all Sunday night and Monday until ten minutes past 6 o'clock in the evening, when he died very easily.

Baltimore, Nov. 22
James Roseberry Hawkins, colored, aged 20 years, was hanged at Towsontown, Baltimore Co., Md., this morning, at 9:30, for an atrocious assault upon Ida Schaffer, a school girl, aged 13 years, in April last.

John Potts, of Pottstown, West Virginia, killed his father with a hatchet last Thursday night because the latter reproved him from intoxication.

A Mystery Solved

On Christmas eve, Jennie Moore, a young woman residing in John street, Belleville, disappeared from her home and all attempts to discover her whereabouts were unavailing. She had but just recovered from a fever, and her mind was somewhat affected. Monday, two boys, while playing on the bank of the river near Hill's thread works, in East Newark, noticed something floating on the water. They notified Constable Woerner, who procured a boat, rowed out to the spot indicated by the boys and found that what they had seen was the body of a woman. He secured the corpse and notified Coroner Crane, who had it removed to a suitable place. Thinking that the body resembled the description of Miss Moore, he sent word to her family, and her brother and young man who was paying attentions to her came to East Newark and identified the body...

Capt. W. W. Abbott, of Company L, 38th Regiment N.J.V., resident of Lambertville, was away from his family from Tuesday last until Friday, which was an unusual thing for him, when the family became alarmed, and fearing that he had come to some ill fate, search for him was commenced on Friday morning in every direction.... and at 3 o'clock on that day Michael Smith found the body at the bottom of the Canal, about seventy-five years below the Railroad crossing of the Flemington Railroad and about thirty yards from his residence... He leaves a wife and several children.

Sudden Death
Israel Wilson, formerly of West Amwell, who sold his farm a year ago and removed to Lambertville, where he had just finished a neat new house on Union street, commenced to move his goods into it on Saturday afternoon last, when, he being the first member of the family to enter the new residence on the occasion, fell to the floor dead in less than two minutes after he entered the door.... He was aged about 62 years.

James James, or "Double Jimmy", as he is more familiarly called, lives on a farm twelve miles south of Weatherford, Parker county, Texas, with his daughter, Mrs. Nancy Wheat, 63 years of age. This old gentleman was born near the Red House, in Prince William county, Virginia, May 10, 1764. His father resided on a plantation near the Potomac, adjoining Lawrence Washington's... He and his brothers were in the war of 1812... He was married in Virginia soon after attaining his majority, and raised a family of ten boys and five girls. Leaving his native State some years after the war, he settled in Roan county, Tennessee. From that place he moved to Lauderdale county, Alabama, thence to White county, Arkansas, and in 1848 came to Dallas county, Texas, in his 84th year. He continued his residence there until 1872 when in the 108th year he selected, as he says, Parker county to spend his old days in.

The 100th birthday anniversary of Jas. McCloughan, who resides with his son (David McCloughan, Esq.) near Hamden, was celebrated on Tuesday, by a surprise party of friends and neighbors.

We greatly regret to learn of the death of a daughter of A. T. Williamson, living near Ringoes, which occurred at Charlottesville, Va., where she was visiting friends. The Jeffersonian of that town gives the following account of her brief sickness and death:

A Sad Death
Our whole community was shocked on last Saturday morning at the announcement of the death of Miss Ellen Williamson, who died, at the residence of her uncle, Capt. T. L. Farish, the evening before at 7 o'clock... She was a native of New Jersey, where her parents now reside, but had been spending the winter with her relatives here, and had endeared herself to many in our community by her lovely character... The remains were interred in the family burying ground, on the "Farm", on Sunday evening, with the solemn and impressive service of the Episcopal Church in the presence of a large number of sympathizing friends.

Drowned In An Inch Of Water
The County Physician was called to investigate a singular case of death in Middlesex county, N.J., last Wednesday. A young man named Fletcher, about 28 years of age, was seated with two little children on the bank of a brook called Mile Run, on the outskirts of New Brunswick, whittling out boats for them with a pen-knife. He was seized with a fit and fell upon his face in the water.

Burned To Death

A sad occurrence took place at White House Station last Wednesday night. About nine o'clock flames were seen in the upper windows of a two story dwelling occupied by George Hall, about one hundred and fifty yards south of the depot. Hall had just left the house about ten minutes when the fire broke out, and was within fifty yards of his house. He had left his three children in the house. A boy age four and a girl aged five years had just been put to bed. Another girl, aged seven, was the only person in the house who escaped without injury. The other two were burned to death, the heat being so intense that it was utterly impossible to render them any aid. Hall is a laboring man and works by the day. His wife had gone to Plainfield in the afternoon and returned home on the twenty minutes past ten o'clock train and found their home burned to the ground and her two children lay burning in the ruins.

Death of a Murderess
A Hartford dispatch says: Lydia Sherman, the Derby murderess, died at Wethersfield State Prison last Wednesday, having been in failing health for several weeks. She was arrested at New Brunswick, N.J., in June 1871, for the murder of her husband, H. N. Sherman, of Derby, Conn., and was tried at New Haven, in March, 1872, the result being a verdict of murder in the second degree. At the close of the trial she was remanded to jail at New Haven for sentence. Ten months later, in January 1878, she made a full confession, showing that she had poisoned three husbands and four children. Her victims were E. S. Struck, a Yorkville policeman, and two children by her marriage with him; Dennis Hurlburt, of Litchfield, Conn., and H. N. Sherman and his two children, Ada and Frankie Sherman.... Singular Death

Mr. George Crawford, a well-to-do farmer in Holmdel township, Monmouth county, was killed in a singular manner on Saturday evening. His men had driven in several wagon-loads of corn, and by his directions had placed them on a scaffold composed of rails raised in the open air, about three feet from the ground. After they had loaded the scaffold with several tons of corn he saw that some ears of corn had fallen through the rails. Calling his negro boy to assist him he crawled under the scaffold to gather them up. While thus engaged, Mr. Crawford noticed that one of the supports was giving away beneath the heavy load, and called to the boy who was behind him, to hurry out. The boy did so, and escaped safely, but Mr. Crawford was pinned to the ground by the sharp end of a broken rail, which pierced his neck. Before the mass could be cleared away, he had died from suffocation.

An October Gale

The oldest resident cannot call to mind any such powerful wind storm as that which swept over our county last Wednesday morning...

The saddest calamity of the storm in this county is the killing of a bright and promising little son of Edward Schenck, of Oak Dale. The roof of his dwelling was blown off and some part of it striking the lad killing him instantly. He was about 8 years of age and a great favorite in the neighborhood.

George McBride, Jr., formerly a business partner of Samuel Sloan, of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Road, died on Monday last at Somerville, of heart disease.

On Saturday of week before last, John Hinkley, an old resident of this vicinity, was engaged in hauling corn stalks for William Everitt, about two miles west of town. In driving through a gate-way, the front wheels of the wagon struck the post and upset the load, which was a little one-sided on the wagon. Mr. Hinkley fell with the load, and getting his feet fast either in the lines or swivel-trees, was dragged quite a distance. When the horses were finally stopped and Mr. Everitt reached the unfortunate man it was found that he was terribly injured about the head, his scalp being pretty much all torn off. Medical assistance could not do but little for him and after lingering until Wednesday last death put an end to his sufferings. Mr. Hinkley came to this part of the country many years ago with a drove of horses, from Ohio, and remained here. It was said that he left a wife and family there.... His age was about 80 years.

The oldest person now living in Hunterdon county is supposed to be Mrs. Grace Brittain, who resides with Misses Amy and Rebecca Brittain, in Lambertville, who celebrated her 103d birthday on the 28th day of October ult. She was born near Flemington on the 28th day of October 1775, and her maiden name was Bellis. Her husband, John Brittain, Esq., died in Flemington several years ago. Her children numbered five girls and four boys, only three of whom are now living: viz: Amasa Brittain, of Frenchtown; Mrs. Joseph Case, of Flemington, aged about 80 years, and Mrs. Aller, of Frenchtown, aged about 70 years...

Edmund Perry - Few men were better known in this County, or in fact in the State, than ex-Judge Perry, who was buried from our midst on Wednesday last. For nearly thirty years he has been more or less prominently connected with public affairs. Born at Basking Ridge, Somerset county, on the 4th day of October, 1825, he was at his death fifty-three years of age. He removed from Essex county to Hunterdon when he was about twenty-one years old, and for a time taught school near Clarksville, in a small building still standing there.... His father's family, which consisted of nine children, but two are now left. Three of his brothers were, like himself, members of the legal profession, and one a physician. He leaves a wife and three children, two sons and a daughter....

Some six weeks ago a stranger made his appearance in Ringoes, and announced that he was a painter in search of employment. He gave his name as Ernest Shurmann, but he did not have to inform any one that he was a native of Germany. He obtained considerable work throughout the neighborhood and on Monday last was painting Monroe Hagaman's outbuildings, a short distance from the village. While thus engaged he was taken with an epileptic fit and fell to the ground, a distance of about eighteen feet, causing congestion of the spinal cord, thereby producing paralysis of the truck and lower extremities, and his death followed in a short time. Where he came from or whether he had relatives in this country is not known. He was buried at Ringoes.

Mrs. Joseph King, who was so severely injured in Lambertville by the explosion of a kerosene lamp - an account of which we gave last week - died on the following day.

A shocking case of suicide occurred on Thursday last between South Branch and Neshanic in Hillsborough township. Mr. Jacob Yost, a German farmer living upon the farm of Mr. Garret Van Liew, evidently under temporary aberration of mind, wandered along the banks of the South Branch stream a short distance from his home and with a razor cut his throat from ear to ear.... He was a tall, robust nam, about sixty years of age, was a member of the South Branch Church and generally respected as a quiet peaceable citizen. - Somerset Unionist.

Warren County Invaded

A large party of Hunterdon county people invaded Warren county on Wednesday, the 20th inst., but not with evil intentions. They came from Mt. Pleasant and stopped in Phillipburg at J. P. Lesher's house, to pay their respects to his wife's mother, who was 87 years old that day. She is hale and hearty and full of vivacity, and was very glad to see her friends. Her name is Hannah Severs nee Manning, and nine of her children with their wives and husbands and children and grandchildren, were present to do her honor. For more than 60 years she has been a member of the Presbyterian church, and her children (six daughters and three sons), by marriage, have been joined with some of the most prominent families of Old Hunterdon, the Leshers, Youngs, Conovers, Taggarts, Bevers, Gwinners, Pott, etc., and all their families were present at the Reunion.... - Warren Democrat.

We have just learned, through a trustworthy source, that two former citizens of Hunterdon county - one of whom had a family - were murdered in Kansas by the Cheyenne Indians in the late outbreak. The savages left their reservation, in the northwest corner of the Indian Territory, about the 23d of September, and went through Kansas en route for their old home in the Yellowstone country. On their way they butchered about forty settlers, among whom were George Johnson and family, formerly of Clarksville, and Nelson Bunn, formerly a farm-hand of Joseph C. Exton. Mr. Johnson and family left this section last Spring, and settled in Kansas, and shortly after he sent for Bunn. - Clinton Democrat.

George A. Allen, for some years one of the most prominent lawyer of Hunterdon county, died at about five o'clock on Thursday morning last, at his residence in Flemington. On the afternoon of the preceding Tuesday he was suddenly prostrated by an affection of the brain, became at once unconscious, and so remained until his death. Mr. Allen, at the time of his death, was about fifty-seven years of age. He was born in Westport, Connecticut, and when a young man removed to this county, where he commenced the study of the law with James N. Reading, Esq....

A well informed correspondent of the Hunterdon Independent is writing a series of articles for that paper upon the early days of the county of Hunterdon. In speaking of the old tavern at Rosemont, he says: Isaac Rittenhouse it is said built the older part of the tavern at Rosemont and while they were engaged in putting up the rafters the news came of Braddock's defeat, now 123 years ago. Isaac passed through many scenes incident to the revolution, when the Jerseys were overrun by the British and Tories. He had a negro by the name of Cato, a faithful, wide awake servant. At one time a band of Tories were seen approaching on a marauding expedition. Mrs. Rittenhouse gave a signal to Cato and her son Samuel, then a lad, while she engaged them in pleasant conversation to go to the barn and turn out all the horses, some very good ones, and drive them up in the woods, so when the Tories sought their horses they could not be found. At another time the enemy came and commanded them to come and cart for the army. Samuel and Cato watching an opportunity sprang on the horses and dashed off concealing themselves in the thick forests of Kingwood.

George Souders, a well-to-do farmer of Carpentersville, Warren county, committed suicide by hanging himself in his barn last Friday morning. He is supposed to have been somewhat deranged.

Hunterdon County's Homicides and Hangings

Before the recent trial of Nixon, says a Flemington writer in the True American, that County seat has been the scene of several murder trials and three executions. The first execution was that of a white man, named James Vannata, about 30 years of age. He lived in Alexandria township, and, having a dispute with a neighbor, with whom he had long been at enmity, shot and buried him in a forest. He was executed in July 1794. The next was Broom, a slave belonging to Philip Case, who, in a quarrel with a fellow slave, killed him in his master's kitchen. He was hung Nov. 11th, 1803. Both of these executions took place in the upper part of Flemington, near the Reading mansion. The last execution was Nov. 28th, 1828, in a field about forty rods west of the village, on the north side of the road leading to Stockton, or Centre Bridge as it was then called. It was that of James Brown, a colored boy aged about 14 who in Hopewell (at that time Hopewell township belonged to Hunterdon county), beat to death an old lady named Beaks, with an ox yoke, because she refused to lend him a gun.

Tewksbury: Geo. W. Sutton, Pound Keeper

The death of Hon. Joseph Fritts, of Hamden, should have been announced in our last. It occurred on Sunday, the 2d inst., and notice was deferred for the gathering of facts appropriate to the loss which our community thus sustains; and by thus delaying, the sad announcement was overlooked in finally making up the paper. The deceased was for several terms a Representative of this County in the General Assembly; and for a large part of his long lifetime has been a distinguished and useful member of the community. He died in the 77th year of his age, from an enlargement of the heart. His estimable wife, after union with him for more than half a century, survives, with a number of sons and daughters. - Clinton Democrat.

Aaron Lowe, of Somerset county, died last week from eating raw ham. It was thought that there was some insect, probably the trichina, in the meat.

Ex-Judge, Robert S. Kennedy, of Stewaresville, died suddenly on Thursday morning, of apoplexy. He was a widely known gentleman, coming from a family of distinguished men. As a citizen he was respected, honored and esteemed in no light manner, and as a public man held the confidence of all. He was for a number of years Associate Judge of Warren county, and he has held many public trusts.

Peter Brown, a well-known young man of Paterson, was assisting a young lady friend to move Saturday morning, about 11:30 o’clock, and helped to get a stove up stairs, when he become suddenly ill, blood issuing from his mouth and in a few minutes expired. He had had disease of the heart for ten years past, and the unusual exertion caused a fatal rupture of some of the vessels near that organ. The shock to the young lady he was assisting, and who was his fiancée, was very great.

One of Chas. Dickens's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Alfred Tennyson Dickens, has met a terrible death in Australia, where her husband has, for several years, been living and prospering. She was driving out with her little daughter, when the horse became frightened and, running away, finally overturned the carriage. The child was killed and the young wife was so dreadfully injured that she died in a few hours.

William Rinehart, of Junction, died very suddenly on the 13th inst. Deceased was an engineer on the Central Railroad. He came home as usual on the above named evening, apparently in his usual good health. After supper he complained to his wife of being tired, and lying down on a lounge, was soon to all appearances asleep. He had not slept long before his wife, hearing an unusually strange noise, hastened to his assistance, only to find her husband dead. Death was supposed to have been caused by paralysis of the heart. Deceased was a brother of Samuel Rinehart, Esq. - Clinton Democrat.

Last Thursday afternoon three young men named Hazen Van Horn, William Galloway and Andrew Muchley were bringing a small raft of firewood down the Delaware. About one mile above Belvidere the raft struck a small island and swung out into the river. As it neared a dangerous rift all three sprang into the river. Muchley succeeded in getting ashore. Galloway and Van Horn were drowned. Galloway's body was recovered in a few hours. Van Horn has not been found. Galloway leaves a wife and four small children in destitute circumstances.

Jacob Gray, a well-known farmer, who for a great many years had lived about a mile and a half west of this town, died after a brief illness from a painful disease, last Saturday. At one time in his life he conducted a saw mill near his late residence, and there are very few middle-aged persons living within a radius of ten miles who have not heard of "Gray's Saw Mill". The old spot still retains its name though for twenty years or more the business has been discontinued. Mr. Gray enjoyed the esteem of this community as an honest man and a good citizen. His age was about 73 years.
Mrs. Mary E. Wainwright, widow of the late Orlando Y. Wainwright, of Toms River, met with an accident of Friday morning, which resulted in almost immediate death. Terrible Explosion At Frenchtown

Last Wednesday afternoon, a few minutes before 4 o'clock, a terrible explosion took place in Frenchtown. The boiler in the large saw-mill belonging to Hiram Deats, and occupied by Charles White and Jacob White, exploded, sending fragments of the building for several hundred yards. Robert R. Swick, an honest, sober, hard working man aged 55 years, was instantly killed. Mr. Swick was the engineer, and has worked at that business for more than twenty years. He leaves a wife and five children. Henry Sigafoos was loading lumber a short distance from the mill, in company with Charles White; they had taken the four horses from the wagon, and the two were engaged in booming the load at the time of the explosion. Mr. Sigafoos was seriously injured, and but little hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Suicide

On Friday afternoon, 4th inst., Cyrenus Johnson, of Bethlehem township, committed suicide by hanging himself in his barn. He was a carpenter by trade and a farmer by occupation. For several years past, we understand, Mr. Johnson had been subject to brief spells of mental derangement at this season of the year, and he was narrowly watched by his family. He was seen to go to the barn by his daughter on the afternoon in question, and although she almost immediately followed him out, the fatal act was accomplished before she discovered the body and could cut the rope.

A track walker named Kelley, a resident of Bloomsbury, was run over on Friday night, April 4th, on the Easton and Amboy Railroad, and instantly killed, near the Musconetcong Creek. He was walking on the track in company with his little son, and stepping out of the way of a special train going west, was run over by a coal train going in the opposite direction. His little son escaped being injured. Mr. Kelley has been in the employ of the company for a long time, and was highly respected as an employee.

John M. Walters, who was sentenced to State Prison for five years in 1875, has been pardoned, and was released Wednesday. John and a sister and brother lived together in a little house on the road from Hughesville to Springtown and one Sunday afternoon during an altercation, John struck his brother in the back of the head with a stone and killed him, and, subsequently pleading guilty to manslaughter, was sent to prison. It was generally considered at the time that the stone was thrown in the heat of passion, without any intent to kill or injure; and the Court took that into consideration in pronouncing sentence.

About three o'clock last Tuesday morning the body of a man was found lying on one of the tracks in the Central Railroad yard, at Communipaw, and was subsequently recognized as that of John Downs, a brakeman on the Long Branch Division. The unfortunate man was in the habit of sleeping in a caboose, and it is believed that he was on his way from supper when struck by one of the bobtail engines, which are constantly moving about the yard. The time at which the accident happened can be surmised from the fact that his watch had stopped at twenty minutes past eight o'clock. The body was terribly mangled and was taken to Somerville on an early train. Downs was about thirty eight years of age and leaves a wife and four children.

Finding His Daughter’s Body

Jacob Eder, of Sayresville, N.J., last Tuesday identified as that of his daughter, the body of the girl found in the water near Sandy Hook. Mr. Eder, who is a German, and is employed in one of the brick-yards at Sayresville, states that on the afternoon of Saturday, January 11th, his two daughters, Frances and Margaret respectively ten and thirteen years old, and a little friend named Katie Mitchell, were on the ice on the Raritan river. Katie and Margaret were drawing Frances on a small hand-sled, and had been so engaged for a long time. Some men on a sloop anchored in the river some little distance off heard a shriek, and saw that all the children had broken through an air-hole in the ice. Rushing to the spot, the men rescued one of the children, Margaret Eder, who was clinging to the edge of the ice, but the two other girls had gone under the ice, being carried away by the tide, which was running fast. This happened in sight of the house where the Eder family lived, and the whole affair was witnessed by several persons from the shore. These persons were too far off to render any assistance. Since that time, up to last Saturday, over three months, nothing was heard of the bodies of either of the lost girls. On Saturday, was a fisherman was following his vocation in the Raritan river, about two miles from Sayresville, toward Amboy, he discovered, on the shore, the body of Kate Mitchell. On Sunday the body of Frances Eder was found at Sandy Hook by Keeper of Light-house, John A. Sutton, almost twenty-miles from the scene of the accident.

Thekla Lipfert, aged five years, whose parents lived in Newark, was run over and instantly killed by a train at the Cottage street crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad on Tuesday morning. She had been playing near the track with a ball, which rolled away from her and landed near the railroad track. As she went to pick it up she either fell or was drawn under the cars.

Mrs. Betsey O’Neill, of the Water Gap, was picking coal on the railroad track, last week, and seeing a train coming, she stepped from it, leaving a basket of coal behind. Afterwards, thinking she would have time to get the basket from the track, started, got it, and would have got off safety had not her foot caught fast between the plank and the iron rail and held her fast till she was struck by the train, which knocked her loose and clear of the track, breaking her leg and injuring her inwardly, so that death ensued immediately.

Burned To Death In A Hotel

A Scranton, Pa., dispatch says: last Wednesday night John Keough, proprietor of the Rising Sun Hotel, at Carbon Hill, and his family, retired to rest. The family consisted of three sons and two daughters, and the father. The sons occupied one room, the daughters a second and the father slept alone. At 1 o'clock, Keough was awakened by hearing one of his daughter scream "Fire!" and on going down stairs he found the entire lower portion of the house in flames. Hastening to the room where his sons were sleeping, he caught up the youngest and rushed with him down stairs, supposing that the others were following. When he reached the yard he discovered that they remained in the building. He returned to rescue them but the entire house was by this time enveloped in flames, and Keough, blinded by the smoke and severely burned by the fire, was forced to retire without finding the children. In the meantime, one of the boys and the elder daughter had succeeded in escaping by the back stairs, but one of the boys, William, age 13, and the younger daughter, Margaret, aged 12, were burned to death.... Keough and one of the boys who escaped were so severely injured by the flames that they are expected to die....

Suicide
On Friday last, Hamilton Forman, of Frenchtown, was found suspended by a rope fastened around his neck, dead, in his barn on his farm near Milford. Some two years ago, Mr. Forman moved from his farm to Frenchtown, since which time he visited the farm almost daily, overseeing his employees. He left his home as usual on Friday morning about six o'clock and drove to the farm, and about nine o'clock left the hands and went to the barn at which place he was found at noon as above stated. Mr. Forman is reputed to be the wealthiest man in that section of the county. He leaves a wife and several children. No cause is assigned for the act as he was of a cheerful and lively turn of mind. His age was 65 years.

Death of Ex-Sheriff Chamberlin
Amplius B. Chamberlin, who has long been a sufferer from disease, died at his residence near Locktown on Friday last. He was born in the interior of the State of New York, coming to Hunterdon county more than fifty years ago. One by one the aged are falling, and the familiar forms and faces of several men whom we have seen upon these streets from time to time ever since we can remember, have within a fortnight been touched by the resistless hand of Death. We last week announced the demise of ex-Sheriff A. B. Chamberlain and Captain P. W. Burk, and now we have to chronicle the death of John Myers, of Quakertown, aged 91 years; and Joseph K. Potts, of this vicinity, aged about 80 years. May they rest in peace.

Eli Young, of Glen Gardner, a Democratic candidate for Assembly some four years ago, died at his residence last week of consumption.
Isaac B. Manning, of Mt. Pleasant, has been sorely afflicted lately. In March he buried a lovely daughter and last week a grown-up son - both victims of that terrible scourge, consumption.

Killing His Brother
A Baltimore dispatch says: John Stinchcomb, a resident of Severn, Ann Arundel county, Md., while quarreling with his brother Louis today, about some property became very much excited. Finally, John, exasperated at this brother's obstinate refusal to accede to his view of the matter in dispute, drew his revolver and shot him, killing him almost instantly. Leaving him dead in the road some distance from Severn, John returned home and killed himself by a second discharge of the same weapon. John was 50 and Louis 45 years old, and neither married.

A Kentucky girl and her lover had vainly tried for four years to elope together - They were Thomas Owen and Miss Kate Sanford, of Milburn. A few nights ago, Miss Kate bravely jumped out of a window. She broke one of the small bones near the ankle, but Tom got away with her, and she was held on her feet while the marriage ceremony was performed by a sympathizing clergyman.

Richard Farren, a boy 9 years old, came to his death in a singular manner in Everett, Mass., last Thursday afternoon. He had been amusing himself by hanging between the stringers of a bridge on the Eastern Railroad, and pulling himself up so that his head extended above the rails. While in this position and watching an approaching train on the inward track, a train came up behind him on the outward track and severed his head from his body.

A singular accident happened in Paradise township, York county, Pa., on Wednesday afternoon. Samuel Stahle, a blacksmith, aged twenty-two years, whose home was in Littlestown, attended the funeral of Mrs. Mary Hantz. There were many persons about, so Stahle and other young men threw themselves down on the grass in the yard. Stahle had his open pocket-knife in his hand, when one of the young men jokingly rolled him over. The blade of the knife passed through the ribs and pierced the heart. Stahle died instantly.

A Baby Killed On The Rail
A Lancaster, Pa., dispatch says: This morning (Friday) about 7 o'clock, as the Harrisburg Express on the Pennsylvania R.R. was passing Salunga, several miles west of the city, the engineer discovered a child, about twenty months' old, sitting on the track. Before he could stop the train it was struck and instantly killed. The infant was a son of Abram Hall, who lives near the railroad.

A Sad Accident

Last Saturday afternoon, Mr. Geo. L. Titus, of this city, took a drive into the county with his wife and twin daughters, to call upon his son, Frank R. Titus, who lives not far from Blackwell's Mills. When near his son's residence, he saw him at work in the field, and got out of the carriage to go over to him. Just at that time, a wagon with milk cans frightened Mr. T.'s horse, which started off. Mr. T. had hold of the lines and he was dragged for a considerable distance, when the lines were pulled from his hands. When near the bridge across the creek at that point, the horse suddenly turned, broke the shafts and upset the carriage. Mrs. Titus and her two daughters were thrown out on a pile of stones, and one of the girls (Bessie) received such serious injuries as to cause her death on Sunday evening last... Bessie was about thirteen years old at the time of her death.

We regret to hear of the death of our well-known old friend Peter J. Young, of Ringoes. On Friday night last, the old gentleman retired at his usual hour in apparent good health, and next morning was found dead in bed, with his cane in his hand, as

The life of General James Shields, who died on Monday, was eventful enough to have served for the pages of a romance. The emigrant son of an Irishman in humble life, he was three times elected, and from three different States, to the Senate of the United States, the highest political office a naturalized citizen can hold, and the highest except Presidency itself. Upon his arrival in this country in 1826, when the State of Illinois was but eight years old, he settled there, and rising with the country, having read law, and being a man of force of character, he was singled out by his neighbors as a representative man, and served them as a lawyer, legislator, Judge of the Supreme Court and General.

Aunt Betsey Dorsett

Miss Elizabeth Dorsett, the centerarian, died at the residence of the late Ezra Osborn, at Middletown, at half-past ten o'clock on Saturday night, May 31, aged 101 years, 11 months and 16 days. She had been confined to her bed about two weeks. Her physicians say that she had no physical ailment, but life gave way from the weight of years.

The N.Y. Herald of Monday says: This remarkable woman was born at Bethany, midway between Middletown and Matawan, June 15, 1777. Her memory extended back to the closing years of the Revolution, and she was one of the very few persons living in this age who had seen and had conversed with General Washington. She resided at the place of her birth until 1838, when she removed to Matawan, then known as Middletown Point. For the last twenty years of her life she has had a home at the residence of Mr. Osborn, whose wife was Miss Dorsett's niece. Upon reaching her centennial birthday, it was intended by Miss Dorsett's relatives and friends to celebrate the event, but the precarious health of Mr. Osborn, who was then living, and who has since died, forbade.

On The Life Of Late Peter J. Young

It was with profound sorrow that I announce the sudden death of Mr. Peter J. Young, an aged and highly respected citizen of Ringoes. For the last seven years he has been making his home with his cousin, Mr. Theo. J. Young.... Peter J. Young was born Sept. 10, 1797, in Amwell township. He received a common English education, which cultivated a strong desire for reading, of which he was very fond. He was descended from one of the old settlers of this county. His grandfather, Peter Young, who was a native of Germany, came to this county and settled at or near Pottstown, N.J., now a small village, where he remained but a short time. Soon afterwards he took up a large tract of land which he bought of the Indians, situate on the northern slope of Sourland Mountain, only a short distance from where now stands the village of Wertsville, on a portion of which some of his descendants resided a few years ago. Peter J. Young was the son of Jacob Young, and the oldest of seven children. His father lived a short distance from the village of Ringoes, owning the farms on which now reside Mr. Wm. Sutphlin and Mr. Jeremiah Young, brother of deceased. He was probably as good a historian as we had in the county, his memory being very retentive of facts and dates. He had in his possession a great many old papers and documents, which were left him by his old uncle, Mr. John Lequear, of whom I have heard him speak in the warmest terms... In 1825 he was married to Miss Elizabeth Guthrey, by the Rev. James McLaughlin, she being six years his senior.... They lived almost forty years together in unbroken happiness, except by the loss of their children. He was the surviving member of the whole family. He saw laid away in quick succession his wife and three sons. On the death of the last and youngest son he sold his farm to the present owner, Mr. John Kise, retiring from active duties in the decline of life, upon a decent competence, with the respect of all who knew him.... On June 3, 1879, the funeral services were held at the Kirkpatrick Memorial Church, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Miller... His remains were interred by the side of his wife's in the old Dutch burying ground at Pleasant Corner....

As engineer Joseph B. Case was approaching Somerville with his train last Friday, he saw a colored man bending over the track as though he had placed himself in that position on purpose to be hit by the locomotive. And in this he succeeded. Paying on attention to the danger signal, and Mr. Case being unable to stop the train before reaching him, the cow-catcher struck the man on the head, crushing his skull and fatally injuring him. His name was James Kline, and his age is about 80 years.

The bodies of George Bramell, aged twenty-two years, and his sister, aged seven years, who were drowned in the Delaware river in front of their residence, about a mile below Billingsport, on Friday evening last, were recovered on Sunday afternoon, about a mile or a mile and a half from the scene of the disaster...

A sad accident occurred at Monmouth Beach on Friday evening in the drowning of Willie Noyes, the son of Dr. Henry D. Noyes, physician of New York city, who has a cottage at Long Branch. It appears that James Derwin, a boatman, accompanied by the boy, who was 9 years old, and a boat full of still younger children, started from the Monmouth Beach Cottage settlement in a sailboat up the Shrewsbury river. After going as far as Seabright, the boatman undertook to tack, when the boom struck young Noyes and precipitated him into the water...

One of the most terrible deaths imaginable befel Richard A. Jones, an employee of the Johnstown, Pa., Rod Mill. His duty was to guide the red hot wires, which were being twisted into ropes, from one roller to another. The wires twisting at the rate of 300 revolutions per minute, and at the time of the accident were as limber as twine, owing to their condition of almost white heat. One end of the wire became krinkled, and flying from the roller wrapped tightly around the body of the unfortunate workman, who was standing close to the machine. He was pulled on to his hands and knees as the wire moved on, and a second later another workman severed it with a blow of the axe; but Jones' death had been instantaneous. In less than ten seconds the wire had passed completely through the body and both arms of the workman.

Hattie Ludwig, a pretty young girl who for a number of years has lived near McKeesport, Pa., in the household of a rich farmer named Grey, left home a few weeks ago, and has been traced to Bonson, Ohio, where she has married a coarse and illiterate negro, who used to be in the employ of Mr. Grey. The case is almost incredible, considering that the girl had received a liberal education and was connected with some of the best families of McKeesport, while Bronson, the negro, heavily built, coarse and repulsive featured, himself was married to a negro woman of his own kind, and the father of four children.
At Springfield, Union county, Nellie Sullivan, aged 15 years, gave birth to an illegitimate child on the 11th of the present month. Her father, Michael Sullivan, took the child and buried it alive, face downward. The doctor demanded to see it, and after it was taken out of the ground it was revived and breathed for half an hour. Sullivan was arrested and imprisoned, but declares that he thought the child was dead. The girl tried to take all the blame from her father, saying that she thought, too, that the child was dead. The father of the child is said by the girl to be a married man named Isidore Schallier.

New Brunswick, N.J., July 31.

Miss Jessie Gould, Mrs. Donnegan, a young widow, Miss Kate Horan, William Guise, and George Kenyon went down the Raritan River in a row-boat today. As they were about to return they noticed a tugboat, towing several vessels, coming up the river, and concluded to save the labor of rowing again the tide by getting a line from one of the vessels. They rowed to the side of a schooner, which was one of the fleet in tow, and were about to make their boat fast as the schooner swung around, striking the rowboat and swamping it. The occupants were all thrown into the water. The tugboat was stopped, and every effort was made to rescue the party. Miss Gould, as she came to the surface, caught hold of a chain, and was rescued. The two young men were both taken from the water much exhausted, but Miss Horan and Mrs. Donnegans both same, and their bodies were not recovered.
